

Argentines Keeping 'Death Watch' on Trapped Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina confirmed officially last night that it has surface and aerial craft on a "round the clock" "death watch" over a mysterious unidentified submarine trapped in the narrow-mouthed Golfo Nuevo Inlet

630 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Navy Secretary Rear-Admiral Gaston Clement said the submarine had been attacked "several times" since Feb. 4. He could not say whether the submersible still was bottled up or had managed to escape. "The (submarine) commander would be an idiot if he did not do everything possible to escape," the admiral remarked tersely.

Seven Argentine warships ranging from anti-submarine patrol craft to cruisers are poised in the still waters of Golfo Nuevo, in Argentina's Patagonian region seeking a "kill" of the mystery submersible, Clement said. Aerial reconnaissance units overhead include Corsair fighter planes and Neptune flying boats, the latter equipped with depth charges.

It was reported without official confirmation that the sonar equipment of the Argentine warships had picked up sounds indicating the crew of the submarine was attempting to make repairs. There was widespread speculation the underwater craft may be nuclear-powered, which would account for the high speed attributed to it by some newspaper accounts.

The naval announcement ended 48 hours of official silence on the subject of the submarine. Golfo Nuevo is the usual summer manoeuvring area of the Argentine fleet. It lies astride the vital tanker route from the principal oil fields at Comodoro Rivadavia and Buenos Aires. A mystery submarine was attacked by Argentine naval forces in the same general area last year but its ultimate fate was never established although it disappeared leaving an oil slick behind.

Strike

Britain Faces Crisis

Police Leaves Cancelled

LONDON (AP) — The government is planning urgent measures to meet a food and fuel crisis threatened by a nation-wide rail strike due to start at midnight Sunday.

Acting Prime Minister Richard A. Butler called an emergency cabinet meeting for today to plan how to keep the nation fed and the factories working while the strike by 355,000 members of the National Union of Railwaymen lasts.

STRICT MEASURES

If the strike goes through, the government is expected to declare a state of emergency and rule through 11 regional directors with power to ration transport and supplies.

Police leaves have been cancelled already and industries have been warned to stock up with fuel and steel.

WON'T WAIT

The railway men, who are demanding a big immediate pay rise, are mostly ticket collectors, porters, signmen and guards.

An independent tribunal studying their pay has promised to report by early April. Union leaders have said they're tired of waiting and want their pay increased now. The workers are among Britain's lowest paid workers.

Judge Found In River

CALGARY (CP)—The body of Mr. Justice W. Gordon Egbert of the Supreme Court of Alberta was recovered Monday from the Elbow River in South Calgary a few blocks from his home.

Police said foul play was not suspected and no inquest other than a routine autopsy will be held.

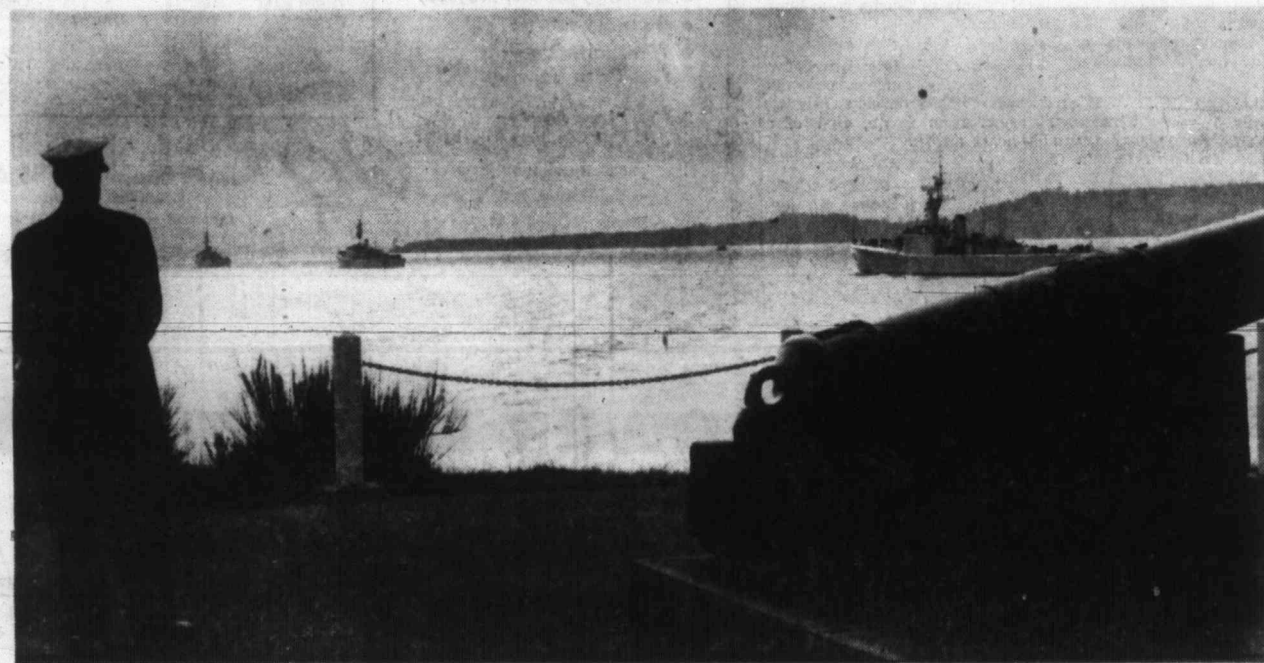

Mr. Justice Egbert, 67, was last seen alive shortly before midnight Sunday by a taxi driver who dropped him off near his home.

The body was found by the cab driver who undertook a search on his own when Mr. Justice Egbert's family reported to the cab company that he had not returned home.

Firemen who recovered the body shortly after noon said it was completely submerged except for a hand which grasped onto a piece of ice. All of the river except an open section in the middle was frozen over.

Murderer Hangs In Ontario Jail

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Marvin McKee, 20, who willed his eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada, was hanged early today for the murder of Huntsville taxi-driver Bruce Spiers, 22. He was only the eighth person hanged in Canada in 2½ years. Prison officials said he confessed his crime and died quietly.

STOP POWER BICKERING OR GAS WILL DO JOB

All Talk, No Action Kiernan Tells House

If the hydro development hassle in British Columbia continues much longer with a lot of talk and no action, natural gas may step in and do the job.

Fulton on Power

Columbia Tops Seaway

TORONTO (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said Monday night the development of the Columbia River holds even greater promise for the people of British Columbia than the St. Lawrence Seaway project did for the people of Ontario and Quebec.

The stumbling block in the way of this realization is that the Columbia is an international river, he said. But he told the Toronto board of trade that a solution "seems to be in sight."

CO-OPERATE

Mr. Fulton spoke here on the eve of a meeting in Ottawa with representatives of the B.C. government to discuss how the two might co-operate on the proposed project and to hear the province's suggestions on what the federal government might say Thursday when it meets a United States delegation. The Canada-U.S. meeting is to consider the recent benefit-sharing suggestions of the International Joint Commission.

50-50 SPLIT

Last December the joint commission recommended a 50-50 split of the benefits of increased downstream power accruing from Canadian power installations proposed along the Columbia where it flows through Canada. Mr. Fulton said this broke the "log-jam" of conflicting interests over sharing of downstream benefits.

"The basic step has been taken and it now remains for us to reach a detailed agreement for developing the river's potential within the framework of these principles," he said.

That was the warning given yesterday to the B.C. legislature by Mine Minister Kenneth Kiernan, "who as well as being minister in charge of the natural gas and petroleum resources is a member of the B.C. Power Commission."

MORE POLITICS

"There is more politics than production in the hydro (Columbia vs. Peace) hassle. Natural gas resources could quite effectively take over the job hydro is expected to do," he said.

"It might come as a surprise to you to hear that in 1959 B.C. gas wells produced more energy than all the energy produced by hydro in the same year," he said.

WORTHY OF NOTE

He converted the natural gas produced in B.C. to British thermal units and said "it is worthy of note that in the year 1959, the natural gas produced in B.C. in terms of thermal units was equal to 145 per cent of all the electrical energy produced in B.C. in that same year."

He noted that "uses for electrical energy and natural gas, as energy, are often parallel." He pointed out B.C.P.C. thermal units in the north have created great savings by using natural gas instead of diesel oil.

BIG DISCOVERIES

The mines minister referred to tremendous gas discoveries at Clarke Lake, Kootenai Lake and Pettit River.

"It is entirely possible that drilling of a limited number of wells in these three areas could almost overnight double gas production of this province," he said.

Fast-Moving Boy Saves Playmate

NORTH SURREY (CP) — Quick action by a playmate saved Rodney McCann, 10, of Vancouver from serious injury Sunday when his face and hair were burned by a home-made flame thrower.

Charles Kuyper, 14, of Surrey, pulled Rodney's face into his chest to smother the flames. The accident occurred when a group of boys decided to light turpentine.

Canada First Casualty If Reds Start Trade War

TORONTO (CP)—No country has more to lose than Canada if Russia should launch an all-out trade offensive on the West, says V. C. Wansbrough, head of the Canadian Metal Mining Association.

"Our geographical location, our geology, and hence our mineral resources, are similar. The U.S.S.R. has the same primary products to sell as we have."

World Fair Plan Backed by Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI) — A $40,000,000 world's fair in Montreal may be the highlight of Canada's 100th birthday celebrations in 1967. It was disclosed yesterday.

The federal-provincial conference to work out plans for the centennial celebrations, "agreed unanimously" to support the bid by Montreal and the Province of Quebec for the world's fair.

Daylight Time Undecided

OTTAWA (UPI) — The House of Commons yesterday studied the pros and cons of daylight saving time but failed to come to any decision on a proposal for uniform opening and closing dates across the nation.

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared here last night that Russia and its eastern European satellite nations would fight rather than allow any change in Germany's post-war borders.

"We declare that what has been modified by war cannot be modified again without war," Khrushchev said during a verbal duel with visiting Italian President Giovanni Gronchi at an Italian embassy reception.

The Soviet premier insisted that a peace treaty with Germany was necessary for "stabilizing a situation provoked by war" and that any agreement must include establishing the frontiers set by the Second World War.

Khrushchev urged Gronchi to stay in the Soviet Union.

"Don't lose your time, don't go back and don't be preoccupied by a question of political party," Khrushchev was quoted as telling Gronchi.

Gronchi replied: "I would like to present Premier Khrushchev with a good wish. Maybe some day, touched by divine grace, he will enter the Christian Democratic party."

CHRISTIAN HERTER . . . cites agreement

For Five Years

Moon Flight 'Too Risky' —Canadian

WINNIPEG (CP)—A leading Canadian scientist said Monday neither the Russians nor anyone else is likely to land a manned rocket on the moon within the next five years.

Dr. William Petrie, operations research superintendent of the Defence Research Board, said difficulty of landing is the big problem.

Another is that the most advanced propulsion system now is "still a major headache. It's a pretty risky operation to project a man into space with what we now have."

Reds Talk Tougher As Arms Improve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian Herter said Monday Russia's military gains may explain why Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is taking a tougher attitude on Berlin and East-West issues.

The secretary said there was no question that the Soviet leader was talking more sternly about Berlin and Germany than he did three months ago.

Herter cited Communist declarations that the Red bloc would make a separate pact with Communist East Germany and let the Allies take the "consequences" if the West refuses to agree to a peace treaty with divided Germany on Russian terms.

The secretary said that if Russia announces any one-sided action on Germany before there is full discussion with the Allies, it will violate the spirit of the agreement reached by Khrushchev and President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., last fall.

Disarmament Above Friends, Foes

MONTREAL (CP)—Former Health Minister Paul Martin said yesterday the Canadian delegation to the forthcoming international disarmament conference should go to Geneva prepared to "stand up not only against the Soviet Union but in the 10-nation meeting under circumstances involving opening March 15 will be the most important action this country has taken on the international scene for many years."

He said Canada should have definite proposals worked out on the basis of the country's experience and international prestige as a peace-maker. The proposals should be presented with force.

Russia, he said, will bear more responsibility.

The "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

The U.S. had turned tough when Russia had appeared to be on the verge of becoming more reasonable.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Millions have read "Exodus" by Leon Uris, the most successful novel that has appeared in years.

What accounts for this extraordinary success? You might think that since "Exodus" is about the birth of the state of Israel, it has been made a best-seller by Jewish readers. But you would be wrong. It seems clear by now that "Exodus" has a basic appeal for Jews and Gentiles alike.

It was published (by Doubleday) in September, 1958.

Gradually it climbed up the bestseller list. During 1958, it sold more than 60,000 copies; during 1959, more than 350,000.

The Book-of-the-Month Club rejected it when it came out. A year later, it was made a selection "by popular demand."

Sales Went Up

In October, 1959, it appeared as a paperback (Bantam). So far, this edition has sold 2,500,000 copies. Usually, a reprint edition kills the sales of the original hardcover edition. But the sales of the original edition of "Exodus" went up instead.

The book's popular success was not due to its literary value. Its style is poor; it teems with clichés; the plot is hackneyed; the hero is strictly a stock character, six feet tall, with black hair, blue eyes, "seemingly superhuman stamina," a "handsome face," and

Willing to Believe

When you're through with the book, you're almost willing to believe that all Jews are heroes, all Englishmen and Arabs are villains, and the world has been made a better place by the creation of the state of Israel.

As I said, "Exodus" has had an enormous appeal for non-Jewish readers. Why? Because it deals with something we only know from the history books—the struggle of a young nation against tremendous odds. It's the story of the American Revolutionary War

New Truck Tax Probe

Sacred Charges 'Procrastination'

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks told the legislature last night the road users commission of inquiry will be reconstituted almost immediately to inquire into and assess the operations of the Department of Commercial Transport Act.

But Hugh Shirreff (S.C., Skeena), a critic of the government's new method of taxing commercial vehicle operators, said later the announcement is "completely unacceptable" to him.

"The reason it is unacceptable is because the matter is immediate and this has all the overtones of procrastination," said Mr. Shirreff.

Commission recommendations to the legislature last year resulted in formation of the commercial transport department.

SAME MEMBERS
Mr. Wicks said the board is being called together again because of representations of the Truck Loggers Association and others in the trucking industry.

Members of the inquiry commission will be the same as before—Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission; commercial transport Deputy Minister A. J. Bowering; motor vehicle branch superintendent George Lindsay; and William Veitch of the finance department.

The commission is expected to report back in time for remedial legislation, if required, to be passed at this session of the legislature.

OLD RATES
Mr. Wicks claimed the trucking industry is not being charged unreasonable licence fees and is in a favorable competitive position with operators of other provinces.

Mr. Shirreff, who described himself as one of the most loyal backbenchers in the House, charged: "This government policy of road users tax is pricing the loggers of the province right out of business and long before we have lost world markets in our basic primary industry we will have ourselves destroyed the means of production, the small logger."

"I would suggest that we go back to the old rates, with proper enforcement of the old act until this assessment has been made with satisfactory results to everybody concerned."

Mass Marathon To End It All Planned in U.K.

LONDON—Millionaire Billy Butlin will organize a walk "to end all walks" from the northern tip of Scotland to the most southern point in England.

He said he is organizing the mass walk from John O'Groats to Land's End—1,000 miles—for his "peace of mind." The long-distance trekking craze which has gripped English walkers this year has also threatened blockade of Britain's roads.

LAND'S END—Wendy Lewis, 18-year-old hairdresser, finished a 1,000-mile walk from John O'Groats and promptly challenged Dr. Barbara Moore, who finished the walk last week.

French Test Today?

A-Bomb Ready

PARIS (Reuters)—France was reported ready Monday to apply for admission to the "atomic club"—almost 15 years after Hiroshima.

The controversial test of the country's first atomic bomb was expected momentarily.

Reliable sources said everything was ready for staging the big Sahara Desert explosion—probably this week. Some reports indicated it might come today and said the bomb already was in place atop its test tower.

First indication of the test will be a warning, giving commercial airliners 12 hours to steer clear of a 580,000-square mile safety zone surrounding the North African test site.

The bomb test site was reported in a state of alert. Seasonal winds were said to be favorable. They began blowing Feb. 1 and were expected to hold two weeks.

Weather experts were checking for suitable conditions that would ensure that there was no danger of radioactive fallout on inhabited areas.

Several African nations have protested that the test threatens them but France claims its safety—precautions have been far more extensive than those for previous American and British tests.

By joining the "atomic club" of the U.S., Russia and Britain, France hopes to boost its prestige and win relaxation of U.S. restrictions on sharing of nuclear secrets.

The French A-bomb—said to be actually a bulky "atomic device" rather than an operational weapon—will be exploded from a 300-foot-high steel tower at a secret test site.

A second test well is being drilled by an oil company in Dorset, England, where the first one in 1959 showed oil at about 1,800 feet.

'Dictatorship' Threat Removed—Kiernan

KENNETH KIERNAN
... stout defence

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan yesterday stoutly defended his appointment, and that of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, as members of the B.C. Power Commission.

"It is a negation of democracy to suggest we can set up independent commissions and they can run their affairs independently of an elected body," he said.

"If there is no duly elected body to which each commission is required to report, then we are getting close to dictatorship," he said.

George Gregory (L, Victoria) had criticized the appointments and said a liberal government would rectify the situation.

Liaison Now Exists

"It is quite apparent that the misunderstandings which developed between officials of the government and the former general manager of the BCPC a while ago, would not have developed if there had been cabinet liaison between the government and the commission on a day-to-day basis," Mr. Kiernan said. "Such liaison now exists to the benefit of the commission and the government."

"Despite the fact there has been no general increase in price of power to B.C. Power Commission customers, there will be no $1,000,000 deficit as was prophesied, and we are continuing a vigorous expansion program for public service," he said.

"If we are to do our job, I think we should concentrate in the areas where electricity is not now available."

He said the idea (suggested by the CCF) that the BCPC could take over the B.C. Electric, and cut power bills overnight, was not correct.

Not One More Job

Such action, he said, would not provide one more kilowatt hour of electricity for B.C., not one more mile of distribution system, or make one more job available, but would cost hundreds of millions of dollars and tie up all credit facilities of the BCPC for years to come.

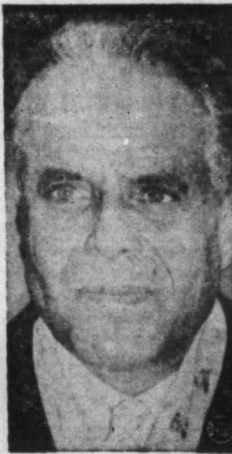

A special committee to examine and inquire into the subject of the use of trading stamps was named yesterday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

D. R. Campbell (SC, Comox) will convene the committee. Other members are Mrs. Buda Brown (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey); A. W. Lundell (SC, Revelstoke); Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard); J. A. Reid (SC, Salmon Arm); D. F. Robinson (SC, Lillooet); H. E. Roche (SC, North Peace River); F. M. Sharp (SC, Vancouver East); Newton Steacy (SC, North Vancouver); George Gregory (L, Victoria); Archie Gibbs (L, Oak Bay); Lois Hagen (CCF, Grand Forks); Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook); and S. J. Squire (CCF, Alberni).

J. M. Bryan (L, North Vancouver) charged that the government "deliberately created the school finance crisis," and that "children are being used as pawns in an effort to grab some political glory in this election year," during a scathing attack on the government's policy on education.

Establishment of a fund to provide loans for young people wishing to start out in farming was advocated yesterday by MLA J. A. Reid (SC, Salmon Arm).

Strikes Off

Strikes planned in Tunisia today to protest French naval base at Bizerte have been cancelled by President Habib Bourguiba so as not "to add to the difficulties" of French President de Gaulle.

Two Other Affairs Charged to Finch

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Prosecutor Fred Whichello offered yesterday to produce two married women with whom Dr. Bernard Finch had affairs more than three years before he set up Carole Tregoff as his mistress.

Whichello's offer to produce "Mrs. X" and "Mrs. Y" came in a closed conference where he sought Judge Walter Evans' approval to cross-examine the surgeon about other extramarital affairs.

Judge Evans ruled that Whichello could ask about other romances. The prosecution was seeking to contradict Finch's implication that he was unfaithful to his wife only after their "armistice agreement" in 1956.

Suburban Life 'Monotonous'

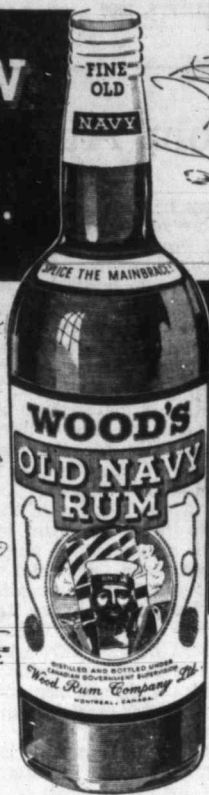

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's suburbs are monotonous, says a committee of architects after a 15,000-mile survey of the situation.

Members of a committee of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, after an investigation sponsored by Central Mortgage and Housing, said Monday they were struck by the dreary aspect of life in suburbia.

But on the average, residents seem happy in their single-unit homes, even though "you can set a man down blindfolded in any given suburb and he won't be able even to approximate his location in Canada."

They found housing supply is keeping up with demand, if you include sub-standard housing and over-crowded quarters.

Atom Program Jumps Ahead

OTTAWA (CP)—A new milestone in Canada's multi-million-dollar program to produce electrical power from atomic energy was reached yesterday with the award of a $4,000,000 contract for a huge turbine-generator.

The 1,000-ton unit will be hooked to the $60,000,000 nuclear power plant to be built on the shore of Lake Huron.

Electricity from Atoms

THE award of a federal contract for construction of a $4,000,000 generating turbine for use in Canada's first full-scale industrial nuclear power plant, to be built on the shores of Lake Huron, brings that project into sharper focus. Decided upon some time ago, a $60,000,000 nuclear power plant with a capacity of 200,000 kilowatts is to be erected under the supervision of Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., in association with the Ontario Hydro Commission, which later will have the option of taking over the installation for incorporation in its own system. The output of some 268,000 horsepower would be sufficient to supply electricity to a community of 200,000 people in the area.

The development is interesting for a number of reasons. It will be the first major use by Canada of its own knowledge and discoveries in nuclear physics in direct application to industrial power. The Canadian plans differ materially from those used in other countries, including the United Kingdom; notably in the means of moderating the reactor and transferring its heat for the production of electricity from steam. For that reason the Canadian development will be watched with interest around the world. Also Ontario and Quebec, the two most heavily populated provinces, are coming near to the end of fresh hydro potential except in their northern regions. Nuclear fission may be used one day to boost the more static form of supply.

Present expectations are that the new Canadian reactor will be completed late in 1964 or early in 1965. After a preliminary period of testing under working conditions it may be turned over to Ontario for use in the provincial power system. A small pilot plant, chiefly for the scientific testing of materials to be used in the big one, will precede it into operation. The order for the main turbines, however, indicates that the vast project is to go ahead.

A good feature of the planning is that the power plant is to be built with an immediate purpose in mind, apart from incidental inquiry and testing. If it is successful, there will be immediate use for its output.

Up until now Canada has contented itself chiefly with the scientific side of research, and in some part the development of radioactive isotopes for medicinal and other uses. The new project clearly is beyond the experimental stage; it is a full scale attempt to put the atom to work in the industrial needs of the country. While British Columbia will have its vast waterpowers for years to come, there are other parts in Canada where that is no longer true. Almost 10,000,000 people live in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec combined, with their power needs multiplying rapidly. If the atom will give dependable and economical electricity, Canada will have a use for it all.

Hitting the Target

WHETHER present-day warships will ever fire a gun in anger is something no one can tell, in view of the nuclear deterrents that occupy so much attention. There could be minor conflicts with conventional weapons, however—as in Korea last instance—and it behooves a nation to keep its existing forces in sharp practice and condition.

In any case many a warship has its life during periods of peace and never sees battle action. Against such emergency its role is to perfect its gunnery to a maximum state of efficiency. The ships of the RCN's Pacific Command have recently demonstrated how well they can hit the target.

News that all three prizes in the navy's gunnery competition of 1959 were won by West Coast ships is cause for pride among the Esquimaux fleet. A fair share of the honors would have been creditable but to capture all the trophies singles out the Pacific Command as being specially on the alert. It indicates that the training and application of the sailors on this coast are of a high order.

One supposes that competition between the two coastal commands is always keen, which is the spur to achievement among all ranks. The Atlantic Command is the larger, however, with more ships eligible for gunnery contests, and this makes the feat of the local fleet the more commendable. It is always an extra satisfaction when victory is won against odds.

The prize-winning ships concerned, the destroyer-escorts Margaree, Fraser and Assiniboine, can therefore plume themselves on being the best shots in the Canadian Navy. Whether the mainbrace is spliced to mark an achievement of this kind we are unaware, but the gun teams deserve every pat on the back. It is pleasing for this community also to know that its warships can outshoot all comers for it is a reminder that the Pacific Command maintains its skills at a peak of performance.

Perennial Misunderstanding

FOR the umpteenth time, property owners who appeared before the assessment appeal board last week had to have explained to them the meaning of the term "improvements" as applied to property taxes. Where it is used in that connection it is probably the most misunderstood word in the language.

Every year, in all municipalities, homeowners go to the appeal boards to protest indignantly that they have not made any improvements recently to their properties—so why should there be an increase in the improvement assessment? With such patience as they can muster, members of the appeal boards then have to try to explain what the legislators had in mind when they passed the relevant statutes.

It is a poor choice of a word to cover the taxable items standing on land. Many of the things loosely catalogued as such for the purposes of raising taxes could not by the widest stretch of the imagination be described as improvements in reality; they are in far too many instances blots on the landscape. But leaving that comment aside, the main objection lies in the fact that no word capable of misunderstanding—in this case inviting it—should be employed in the laws of the country.

Hundreds, possibly thousands, of small property owners are worried and upset every time there is an increase in assessments, in the belief that there has been some mistake, since they have not made any improvements. There must be a better word to cover what is intended. Why not "structures"?

Interpreting the News

Atomic Power Spreads

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HOWEVER complex the process may turn out, it is almost certain President Eisenhower eventually will get the power to transfer United States atomic weapons to trusted allies, including Canada.

The initial apprehension of Congress to administration feelers about such transfers is understandable. If one transfers such weapons to one ally, how can he reject the demands of another?

And if a portion of an ally's voters is Communist, how can anyone make sure the killer weapons turned over to an ally may not at some future time end up in the enemy's camp?

These are questions Congress must ponder. They are not new. They were brought up just seven months ago when the joint congressional committee on atomic energy studied U.S. agreements with Canada, Britain, France and other allies, transferring to them certain U.S. nuclear information and equipment, short of the atomic warheads themselves.

The question was crystallized by Senator John O. Pastore, Rhode Island Democrat, who observed that about one-quarter of the French voting population may be Communist.

"Where does that place us on security?" he asked during committee examination of federal experts.

As Pastore and other senators are aware, the situation in connection with France has changed. That country is about to explode its own atomic device. U.S. nuclear scientists estimate that perhaps a dozen countries, including Canada, India and Red China, could manufacture atomic bombs in five years if they so desired.

There is nothing to prevent Russia from providing Red China with such weapons, and Russia may have already done so.

Meanwhile, Russian advances in long-range missiles have reduced the warning time which may be available before effective retaliatory power is eliminated.

"Say, how are you fellows at burying statues?"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I WAS looking at a map and it came upon me that one of the delights of human ways is their inconsistency.

Presumably a strait is a strait even if it bends or is put before or after, but there in print were the captions—Juan de Fuca Strait and Strait of Georgia respectively. The waters of each remain undisturbed, however, except for channel swimmers, irrespective of the order of the name.

Mention of swimming is a reminder that another strait, the Strait of Dover, is often referred to in the plural as though there were two or more of them. Normally one is enough for most people, those on shipboard on a wild night, those emulating a ship's prow in parting the waves, and those who like Hitler or Napoleon have dreams of armada-like conquest.

Incidentally and one more idiosyncrasy of this nature, English Channel swimmers do not swim the English Channel but instead the Strait(s) of Dover. Where a channel that runs into a strait begins, and ends is not always clear—at which precise point does de Fuca become Haro, for instance—but if maps mean anything the Channel receives undue credit in this connection.

To illustrate the pattern further, in one country at least a lake may be a loch and in addition need not be like our own Beaver Lake—although it's a twin—a body of water surrounded entirely by land. It can have an open end like Finlayson Arm, itself another version of a fjord. And there is the River Clyde, which if transplanted to substitute for the Mississippi River. You see how mapmakers play around with terminology, following the lead of local, vocal tradition.

There may be high lands in capitalized Lowlands and low lands in complementary Highlands, and we talk of the Sooke Hills, whose highest peak is three times the height of Mount Douglas, whereas reference to The Malahat, balancing between, is content to avoid altitudinal classification. When does a hill graduate into a mountain, anyway? In my own inconsequent fashion I am prone to expound on the glories of the Olympic Hills—America's to possess but ours to view—usually being deservedly rebuked for demoting their acknowledged mountain stature.

Coming into urban centres one can note the same happy disregard for calling a spade a spade. A thoroughfare may be either a Road or a Street and yet look the same no matter its designation, and a Crescent might not resemble a half-moon at all. A roadway may cite itself as The Rise, period, and leave the rest to one's imagination, as does the Victoria telephone book. No thoroughfare at all is graced therein as such, and were this book interpreted literally some houses at least would seem to be perched on stilts off shore, in a bay.

It is in these parts also that one can read of Cadboro Bay, whereas when the dent is enlarged and switched to the Atlantic Coast it becomes the Bay of Fundy. And up Alberni way there is another arm or fjord called a Canal, and still farther north a maritime Entrance which is also an exit.

So, you see, one would have to be chary of one's speech if local society did not adapt itself to its own favorite terms of reference, and the devil take an outsider. What poor Turk, for instance, told that he was standing in the Dardanelles, would ever understand?

Reports from Ottawa

THE Throne Speech debate, a 10-day free-for-all in the Commons, failed significantly to pry Defence Minister Pearson out of his chair.

Opposition leader Pearson questioned if the government had any defence policy based on today's military realities. Opposition defence critic Paul Hellyer asked pointed questions about the Bomarc and the obsolete CF-100's, and implied that the government is flirting with cuts in defence spending that are not warranted by conditions surrounding national security.

Through all this the only voice raised to defend the government in the realm of defence was that of Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The PM assayed to shoot Pearson down in flames, and especially Pearson's criticism of the so-called "joint control" arrangements with the U.S. for the storage of atomic weapons in Canada, but he was not outstandingly successful.

Atop the Throne Speech's failure even to mention the word "defence," the situation seems to be that the last thing the government wants to debate is defence. As to why—well, a not uncharitable guess might be that with the Bomarc controversy raging in the States, the government just doesn't know from one day to the next what the defence posture of Canada is.

Obviously—and Pearkes as much as admitted this during question period in the House—if the Americans abandon the Bomarc, Canada must abandon it too. Until the Bomarc issue is settled, the government can only stall, and hope that it is not appearing too footless, futile and ineffectual in meeting its responsibility to prepare for the defence of Canada.

The prime minister has not elaborated.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ON the stage, in the movies and on TV a comedian, in order to portray a really stupid, dim-witted man, has only to put his hat in the middle of his head, and we get the impression instantly.

Telling a joke, our top-ranking comics have merely to shift their hats to this central situation, a little forward and exactly upright on the head, and instantly the effect is achieved: the nitwit—to the life.

Now, this is a very curious thing.

Because in real life, the most characteristic feature of all our greatest bankers, financiers, statesmen, industrial magnates and fathers of our country is the fact that they all wear their hats perfectly upright fair in the middle of the front of their heads.

To wear the hat so is the mark of respectability, probity, rectitude, worth and virtue. Not so much as one degree to the right side of the head or the left does the hat tilt. Not so much as an eighth of an inch does it lean back. No, sir. Our great ones can put their hats on without even looking in a mirror to see how perfectly centred they sit.

And nobody dare laugh.

The Cannon-Maker

(From The Toronto Telegram)

ALFRIED KRUPP has been granted another year to keep his promise to the Allies to dispose of his huge steel and coal interests. This news will be regarded with suspicion on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Krupp is a convicted war criminal, freed after serving only three years of a 12-year term. He was allowed to return to head the vast industrial empire that has provided the sinews of German military might since the Franco-Prussian War.

With the Classics

Forsooth the present we must give
To that which cannot pass away;
All beautiful things for which we live
By laws of time and space decay.
But 'oh, the very reason why
I clasp them, is because they die.
—WILLIAM JOHNSON CORY.

Coming on the heels of the recent outbreak of swastika sickness in West Germany, the reprieve for the Krupp works provokes unwelcome memories. Shades of Big Bertha, of the U-boats, of the winged hordes of the Luftwaffe!

Is it any wonder that Germany's resurgence with its ugly overtones of Krupp's cannon works and swastika swabbing, is viewed with misgivings?

To many thoughtful people, present trends in Germany are grim reminders of 1932. Would a Germany beset with the economic difficulties of those dread days still hearken to the strident voice from the beer garden?

Krupp, born in 1907—the year the family firm built its 50,000th cannon and launched its first U-boat—has no intention of giving up his power voluntarily. But the breakup of his empire would go far to strengthen confidence in Germany both east and west of the Iron Curtain.

Faded Aura Of Goodwill

By MARQUIS CHILDS

INTELLIGENCE reports indicating that Premier Khrushchev is having troubles with his own military are consoling to U.S. administration officials who find themselves in a bitter controversy over America's defences.

"Maybe their generals don't retire and write books the way Max Taylor did," one Pentagon figure put it, "but Khrushchev is sure having difficulties with 250,000 officers who don't like giving up those fine uniforms and all the privileges that went with them."

General Maxwell Taylor's "The Uncertain Trumpet" is one of the most forthright attacks from a highly informed source on the administration's military policy. Rumors have circulated that even though Taylor is retired with a lucrative job in Mexico City the White House is seeking some way to discipline him.

Khrushchev's troubles in demobilizing a reported 1,200,000 officers and men are given as one reason for the falling away from the "Spirit of Camp David" and the increasingly tough tone out of Moscow. Unlike Stalin, who was a supreme dictator, Khrushchev must reckon with those who speak for important elements of power. One of these is the military and, according to intelligence reports, the question is being raised at the top as to whether the proposed demobilization does not go so far as to weaken Russia's defence position. In short, Khrushchev is being accused of taking too soft a line with the West.

Whatever the reasons there is little doubt that the aura of good will generated last September when President Eisenhower sat down at Camp David with Premier Khrushchev has largely vanished. American policymakers planning for the summit conference in Paris in May believe that the best that can come out of it is a polite agreement to disagree.

But this is in marked contrast with the view of some months ago that an interim settlement of the status of Berlin could be negotiated. There are even doubts as to whether the agreement to disagree can be kept at a polite diplomatic pitch. With increasing vehemence Khrushchev in his exchanges with Chancellor Adenauer has come back to his demand that the two Germans work out their own relationship or, failing this, he will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

But the Eisenhower visit to Moscow, coming less than a month after the summit, is likely to insure that the tone of the Paris conference is at least outwardly pacific. Khrushchev has, after all, certified to his own people that Eisenhower is a man of peace and an abrupt reversal of that line would be, to say the least, embarrassing.

Another bit of insurance is the concept of a series of summit meetings. If Paris fails, the four powers will agree to meet six months or so later in one of the other capitals and wrestle with the same problems. One proposal is for a permanent four-power committee that would sit in Geneva during the intervals between summits and try to make some progress that the heads of government could ratify when they come together.

Even when all this is taken into account, however, there is still the prospect of an end by early fall to what may be tagged as the all-too-brief "Eisenhower thaw". The slam bang of the cold war could start up again just as the American political campaign opens. The effect on the Republican theme song of peace and prosperity is not hard to imagine.

Obviously, any such prediction would at this stage be rash. A great deal can happen between now and May 16 when the summit opens and particularly with all the journeying back and forth that will go on.

President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy left for Moscow at the invitation of Khrushchev at the end of last week. The likelihood is that Khrushchev will go to Rome to return the visit.

In mid-March President de Gaulle received the Soviet premier in Paris. De Gaulle indicated in December when he received President Eisenhower that he sets great store by this visit. Between the Gronchi visit and the journey to France Khrushchev is going to Indonesia with a stopover in India.

Eisenhower, too, will be on the road as a travelling salesman or receiving heads of government during much of this period. So when the two leaders meet in Paris they may discover as they did at Camp David that they still have a mutual interest in promoting the peace theme.

Letters to the Editor

Illicit Dentistry

The letter from the executive secretary of the College of Dental Surgeons of B.C. appearing in the Feb. 6 Colonist was interesting, but not informative. It does not deal with the point at issue at all. My original letter does not in any way suggest that the usual dental services, extractions, fillings, re-alignments, etc., should or could be performed by anyone other than a qualified dentist, nor is any objection raised by me to the current charges for such services.

The point made was that dental plates, when required after natural teeth are lost, are made by the dental technician for the dentist at a price only a fraction of that charged for them by the dentist to the patient, and that this, under legal protection, allows a quite unreasonable mark-up for what should be, in most cases, merely a handling charge. After all, the surgeon who finds it necessary to amputate a hand does not expect to collect a profit of several hundred per cent on whatever prosthetic appliance may take its place.

Teenager Problems

This is to sincerely thank you for the marvellous series of articles on the teenager problem, which I think is one of the most serious problems we are faced with today.

The forthright handling of the controversial subject of working mothers is commendable. That is the root of much of the trouble and I feel sure that eventually some legislation will be required to stop it. The working mother is not only in most cases having to neglect her prime job but is also causing an economic problem. There are now so many families with two incomes that the single income family is poor by comparison.

I also agree that car ownership has much to do with the teenage problem. Those who treat their cars as toys endangering and annoying others should have them confiscated.

How to Lose Elections

I see by the public prints Mr. J. W. Pickersgill says the Suez crisis precipitated the fall of the former Liberal government. Mr. Pickersgill thinks Mr. St. Laurent's statement that the day of the supermen of Europe was passed "catalyzed the backwoods Conservatives to the polls." Mr. St. Laurent's remark "roused their Anglo-Saxon blood and brought them out to vote against the Liberals," says Mr. Pickersgill.

If Mr. St. Laurent lost the 1957 election for the reason given, Mr. Lester Pearson has rendered the Liberal party a similar disservice by his talk about a new Canadian flag without symbols which suggest ties with any other nation.

What is wrong with the present Canadian flag? It's a beautiful flag. Native Canadians have known it for a long time and been proud of it.

Heliport Site

Some years ago a comprehensive and authoritative report was submitted to the city council regarding a suitable "heliport" for Victoria. The industrial reserve was selected as the best available site for helicopter services and has been retained with that progressive foresight.

Other North American cities have developed helicopter landing areas that point to their civic alertness and appreciation of immediate and future requirements.

If Victoria is to be favorably considered and included in the inevitable expansion of helicopter operations, particularly from the viewpoint of providing immediate emergency landing facilities in the selected city area, it would seem desirable for all concerned to review the local situation and to learn what government financial aid could be expected.

Possession of Drugs Charge Set Down for Spring Assizes

James S. Scouler, 931 Inverness, was committed for trial at the spring assizes when he appeared before Magistrate William Ostler in city police court yesterday.

Trial of Scouler on a charge of possession of drugs, under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act, opened in city court last week, and was changed by Magistrate Ostler to a preliminary hearing.

On motion of defence counsel Kenneth Murphy bail was set at $3,000.

Douglas M. Clark, 3115 Douglas, pleaded guilty to three counts of failing to file Social Services Tax Act returns for September, October and November of last year.

He was fined a minimum $10 on each count when court was told the returns had since been filed, and money due paid in.

Two men charged Friday with vagrancy were remanded yesterday to today for trial on charges of false pretences. They are James Clarke and Charles Percival Flater, Jr., both from Vancouver.

The vagrancy charges against the two were dropped, as was a similar charge against Catherine Boger, also by city police. Bail for the from Vancouver. No new charge was filed against Boger each.

Former Banker Dies Here

A link with the old Bank of British Columbia has been broken by the death in Victoria after a lingering illness of D. Hunter Gordon, 3943 Locarno Lane, at the age of 76.

Mr. Gordon, born in Winnipeg, was educated in Victoria and joined the bank in 1898, three years before it was absorbed by the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Gordon continued with the bank for 40 years, and was manager of the head branch in Regina and then the Victory Square branch in Vancouver. After retiring owing to poor health, Mr. Gordon formed General Securities Ltd. and became its president.

He is survived by a widow, the former Irene Ainley, and a daughter, Mrs. T. S. Jackson of Ottawa.

The funeral is private.

Trujillo Crackdown to Be Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The council of the Organization of American States agreed by an overwhelming margin last night to consider charges that the Dominican Republic has committed "flagrant violations of human rights."

Action came on the heels of a statement by U.S. Secretary of State Herter that he was concerned over mass arrests by Dominican secret police and felt the OAS should study the situation.

UNREST DENIED

In New York, however, Dominican consul-general Luis Morado denied there is any political unrest in his country and blamed Dominican opponents and international news agencies for "sensational, deceptive publicity."

The OAS delegates voted 20-0, with the Dominican delegate abstaining, to refer Venezuelan complaints about the Dominican Republic to the council's 11-nation general committee tomorrow.

The committee probably will ask the Inter-American peace commission to take up the matter.

Herter said the state department has received one report that amnesty is about to be granted to some or all of the 2,000 persons arrested.

Arrests followed a plot to overthrow the Dominican Republic's 30-year-old Trujillo regime—a plot that follows a stern, surprising condemnation of dictator Trujillo in a pastoral letter read at all masses Jan. 31.

Plotting for the first time were primarily from business, the professions and society, so the whole affair is regarded by Trujillo as his most severe crisis.

It is not known how many of those arrested are still held in prison.

Minister of Justice Louis

Suero announced yesterday that 123 would be "detained," similar to that of 40 persons sentenced last week to 30 which could mean a fate years at hard labor.

Mountbatten Linked To Windsor

LONDON (AP)—The Queen Monday changed the name of certain future descendants of the royal family to Mountbatten-Windsor.

Decision adds Prince Philip's name, Mountbatten, to the Queen's own name of Windsor. No one will be eligible to use the new name for about 40 years, and the dynasty will continue to be known as the House of Windsor, because royal princes and princesses in direct line for the throne do not use a surname.

The first to use it will be the Queen's great-grandchildren, and only those out of the direct line.

"The Queen has had this in mind for a long time and it is very close to her heart," a spokesman said.

Earl Mountbatten, uncle of Prince Philip, has been reported pressing for the change.

Bitter protest was voiced by The Daily Mirror, which traced the German connections of the Mountbattens, then said:

"Now, only 15 years after the Second World War, the British nation is abruptly informed that the name of Mountbatten (formerly Battenberg) is to be joined willy-nilly—or should it be Wilhelm-nilly?—with the name of Windsor (formerly Hanover)."

Americans 'Insulated'

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Mail said yesterday that 80,000 American servicemen and their families in England exist in a "social vacuum" . . . self-insulated against the people, traditions, and day-to-day events in Britain.

Both sides like the isolation, says the paper, but it results in superficial relationships between Americans and Britons.

Proteins Keep Wrinkles Away

(20th of a Series)
Your skin, the same as your hair, is made of protein. In fact, it is possible to produce ulcers of the skin merely by keeping the diet extremely low in protein. Yet these skin ulcers can be healed quickly enough when abundant quantities of high-protein foods are restored to the meals.

Similarly, a reducing diet (or any other diet) which excludes fats is bound to result in a dry, wrinkled skin.

USUALLY FIRST

If your body, as a whole, is not properly nourished, the skin is usually one of the first organs to show it.

When the diet does not contain enough vitamin A, one of the early symptoms is a pimply eruption. The deficiency disease caused by a serious lack of the B-vitamins, niacin in particular, is characterized by severe skin troubles.

When the minerals iodine and iron are not regularly and adequately supplied to your body, the skin suffers.

NOT TRUTH

No doubt you're waiting for me to tell you that such-and-such food will "erase" the wrinkles from your face. That I cannot do and still tell the truth. But I can tell you that a skin which is not allowed to become dry and roughened is far less likely to develop and retain wrinkles.

Your bones and muscles can be rattled, too.

Barring serious injury (and even then correct diet can help speed a normal recovery), there's no reason why you should not walk with as firm a step, or arise from a chair with as much grace at 70 as

Picky Eating Pays Off

Fitness Is Easy

By LLOYD PERCIVAL
(20th of a Series)

Being a picky eater may seem juvenile, but it can have its good points.

We'll look now into the matter of fat in foods.

Considerable evidence indicates that it is a wise thing to avoid as much as possible animal fats and foods containing cholesterol.

In working with our testing group of athletes, we found that an increase in their fat and cholesterol intake decreased their physical endurance. Conversely, a decrease in such fatty foods improved their fitness level.

We suggest that as part of your fitness program you start immediately to cut down consumption of foods containing animal fat and cholesterol.

Margarine is preferable to butter, skim milk to whole milk and whole wheat breads to white bread. For cooking and baking, use vegetable oils, preferably corn oil or sunflower seed oil.

Incidentally, lecithin, which is found in many foods but which is found in important amounts in soy bean oil, apparently emulsifies cholesterol. It can be purchased in capsule form and taken as a supplement.

Although it is wise to keep your consumption of fat of any kind down to a minimum, it is particularly wise to eliminate animal fat as completely as possible. It has been said that even when you try to rid your diet completely of all fat, you will still get enough to fulfill your needs.

you did at 30. But not if you abuse—and by this I mean starve—your bones and muscles.

MAINLY MINERAL

Most commonly recognized nutrients are calcium and phosphorus, since we know that our bones are composed mainly of these two minerals. Powdered skim milk, and the various kinds of cheese, particularly cottage cheese, are reliable sources of food calcium. Lean meat and eggs are other food sources of calcium as well as protein. Phosphorus, the other "bone mineral," is likewise found in non-fat milk, cheese, eggs and lean meat, fish and poultry.

But all the calcium-rich foods and the balanced mineral concentrate you take are not going to do your bones—or the other calcium-craving organs in your body—much good if that calcium cannot reach the bloodstream to be distributed where needed.

The digestive acids in a normal stomach are composed mainly of hydrochloric acid. It takes the action of hydrochloric acid to dissolve calcium from foods so this mineral may be assimilated.

ALSO TRUE

This is also true of other important food minerals such as phosphorus, magnesium and iron. But if the stomach acids are too weak then the calcium (other minerals, too) moves in through the body, undigested. First, have your stomach acids tested by a physician, who may then prescribe so many drops of dilute hydrochloric acid to be taken in water with every meal; second, add liberal quantities of vitamin B-complex to your diet.

'Fireproof Is a Word I Hate' It's Dishonest, Says Expert

Flying corks and flaming minor explosions were used here last night to tell the story of fire prevention in the home and outside.

An audience of close to 200 sat on the edge of their seats throughout the 90-minute show put on by MacMillan & Biedel fire protection officer

"Fireproof is a word I hate," said Mr. Watts. "The word is used, it's in the dictionary. But the term fire-resistant is more honest."

He cited the case of a tugboat fire caused by a piece of steel wool which fell across the terminals of a battery in the engine room.

He backed this up with a demonstration, holding a match under a piece of steel wool and blowing on the red-hot metal to speed combustion.

"Don't you relax," he told the audience, "when someone says you're in a fireproof building. Hotels in Chicago and New Orleans had the word fireproof painted in letters 10 feet high on the side—yet fire killed a total of 170 in them.

"Remember, even if the fire-resistant shell is left standing, the contents can kill you."

Demonstrating the hazards of fire caused by common household materials, Mr. Watts sent corks flying around the stage by igniting vapor from a few drops of gasoline, lighter fluid, nail polish remover, placed in turn in a closed container.

The meeting was sponsored by Victoria Power Squadron and held in the auditorium of Oak Bay Junior High School.

Fox Finds Friends Under Nose of Hunt

HIGH MELTON, England (UPI)—For five hours the local hunt club's horses and riders circled through the village looking for the fox. For five hours the 200 villagers smiled and said they had seen no fox.

Finally the hunters left. And the villagers released the breathless fox from the hiding place where they had found him.

Mrs. Frank Schofield explained, "Everyone knew it was there, but nobody said a word. The poor thing was dead beat and it wouldn't have been sporting if the hunt had found it."

Cottagers May Find Land Indian-Owned

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Cottagers in the Kawartha Lakes area who are living on islands "deeded" from Indians may find they now have to pay for their property.

Some 250 of the 640-odd Indian islands in the chain will be offered for sale soon by the department of Indian affairs. The islands are not crown lands but were withheld by the crown in the 1850s for use of district Mississauga Indian bands.

E. A. Adams, district superintendent of Indian affairs, said none of the islands have been legally sold according to a search of records. Some were supposedly bought about 50 years ago for token payments in return for deeds.

The only legal way of transferring Indian property to whites is through a patent, in addition to a deed, Mr. Adams said.

"This situation may prove embarrassing to many island owners who inherited 'deeded' Indian islands from forefathers."

They may face federal tax bills and federal offers to let them buy the land at present real estate prices, plus additional money for the number of years they have trespassed on the Indian lands.

The Indians surrendered the islands to the crown about 60 years ago, requesting they be sold with the proceeds going to the bands' funds. Mr. Adams estimated sale of all the islands could net more than $1,000,000 for the three Indian bands at Hiawatha, Curve Lake and Scugog.

Coast Yards Don't Bid On RCN Ship

None of the three big west coast shipyards has submitted a bid for construction of a $15,000,000 tanker supply ship for the RCN, the Colonist learned last night.

The federal government has indicated western shipyards will be given no consideration for higher costs here and that tenders will be awarded to the low bidder. Cost of preparing bids would be between $30,000 and $50,000—in the words of one official—"down the drain."

Bennett May Be Man To Regain Lost Markets

Premier Bennett's proposed trip to Europe would be an excellent chance for B.C. to regain some of the British market which has been lost to Russia, Herbert Bruch

(S.C. Esquimalt) told the legislature last night.

He said Britain must be convinced that she is helping create "an economic giant from which we all have to protect ourselves."

"... It would make us less dependent on and 'luncheonable' to the U.S. market," he added.

Minimum charge was raised from $3.50 to $3.75. Charge for 13 to 400 units was raised from 10 cents per unit to 13 cents per unit, and the charge for over 400 units went from eight cents to 11 cents.

Favor School Bylaw Saanchi People Told

A four-year-old boy hit by a car while crossing the street in the 2800-block Richmond Road at 11 last night is in "fair" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital, suffering from a broken wrist.

Gary Sorboe, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sorboe of Milnes Landing, was following his mother when the accident occurred. The mother was carrying a baby. The father was still inside his brother's home at 2830 Richmond.

Parents rushed the injured boy to hospital. Extent of his injuries and his condition were not immediately known.

Richard Arnold Good, 2522 Trans-Canada Highway, escaped serious injury last night when the pickup truck he was driving went out of control and turned over on the Trans-Canada Highway.

He suffered a cut on the head and was taken by RCMP to Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he was later reported in satisfactory condition.

His truck was heading towards Victoria when it skidded to the left, bounced off a metal guard rail and turned over. Damage to the truck was estimated at $700.

Driver Peter Ludwig Hahn, 4225 Peden Lane, escaped injury last night when his car rolled over during a collision with a second car at Cedar Hill Crossroad and Shelbourne.

Police said the driver of the other car was Elmer Bryan, 2064 Kings. Damage totalled $200.

Kenneth Joseph Pezzot, 2150 Keating Crossroad, escaped injury when his small panel truck left the road and struck a power pole in the 1400 block Craigflower Road at 8:45 p.m. yesterday. The truck was extensively damaged and power was disrupted at one nearby home.

Downtown Plan All Brand New

A revised downtown improvement plan for the whole business district of Victoria was put before Mayor Percy Scourah and city council public works committee yesterday in its preliminary planning stage.

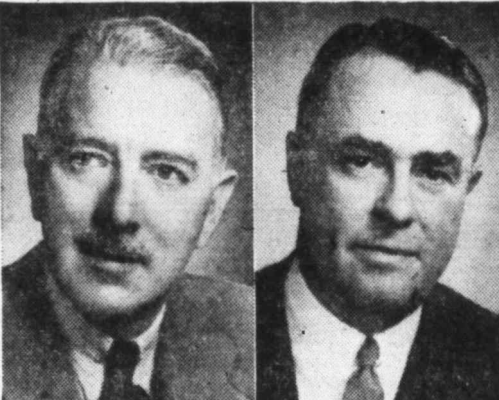

It will be shown at 2 p.m. today in the council chamber to the Victoria Downtown Business Association, the committee decided, before being discussed by council Thursday.

"We also decided," chairman

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said, "that before any vote is put to the ratepayers on the downtown improvement plan, it will be thoroughly publicized to the taxpayers so that the complete plan for the entire downtown business area will be understood before the vote—so no one will be misinformed."

The plan provides for a revised program of developing off-street parking facilities and shopping malls.

Ski Weather Turns Sour

Speaking Briefly

Squaw Valley Lashed by Rain

A blizzard, whipped along by 100-mile-an-hour winds, attempted to erase the last vestiges of the weekend downpour that almost ruined preparations for the Winter Olympics that begin at Squaw Valley, Calif., a week Thursday.

Almost six inches of rain came down in the torrent, threatening several buildings and skating rinks and making the 10,000-car parking lot into a gigantic lake. Several smaller buildings and trees were blown over.

The Olympic Village, however, was not seriously threatened.

NEW YORK defenceman

Bill Gadsby has branded as "ridiculous" a charge that he led a conspiracy against ex-Ranger coach Phil Watson. Gadsby, a forward for the Cincinnati U. forward Oscar Robertson, who Saturday set a major college basketball scoring record for most number of points in a season, last night broke his own single game scoring record with 62 points against North Texas State. Cincinnati won, 123-74. Jesse Owens, one of the United States' great track stars of former years, says high jumper John Thomas is "one of the most superb athletes I've ever seen." Owens continued "the world has seldom been gifted with an athlete of his talent and temperament. He has the final requirement for a champion—courage."

ARNOLD PALMER collected a cheque for $12,000, his biggest payday in five years on the pro circuit, after winning the $100,000 Palm Springs Classic Sunday. Vancouver's Stan Leonard won $1,350 for a 12th-place tie with Jack Burke Jr. and Art Wall. All were nine strokes behind Palmer. Nobody besides Joe Campbell registered a hole-in-one so the $50,000 he won Friday was all his to divide with two partners. Toronto Argos football player Dave Mann pleaded not guilty in Toronto to a charge of illegally possessing marijuana. Winnipeg Warriors, have signed up Warren Hite, a Boston farmhand, for the rest of the season. Bill Fulcher, veteran of four seasons with Washington Redskins, has signed with B.C. Lions as a guard-line backer. Dickie Moore, who suffered a concussion on Saturday's NHL game, will be in hospital and lost to Montreal Canadiens at least a week.

TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS have approached Red Kelly, who retired from hockey last week after refusing to report to New York on being traded by Detroit Red Wings. Wings are agreeable to a deal with Leafs, possibly involving Leaf defenceman Marc Reaume.

Paul Pender, who recently won Massachusetts and New York "world" middleweight boxing championship from Sugar Ray Robinson, has agreed to April 29 as date and Boston as site of rematch. Contracts apparently have been signed. Detroit Red Wings have called up Edmonton defenceman Lloyd Haddon that it will take his world heavyweight boxing title away if he doesn't sign for a defence with one of four top contenders this month.

Sahara Odyssey

Car Proves Dead Loss

By PETER STOLLERY
(Second of a Series)

The only terrorist incident in the Sahara outpost of Ghardia during five years of Algerian civil war may have been an omen for me.

One grenade was let off in the street only two nights before my arrival.

Ghardia is really a collection of five towns, each in one of the nearby oases.

The people here are Mozabites and Ghardia is the unofficial Mozabite capital.

I spent the afternoon driving around a couple of the oases.

Being my first real experience with sand, I immediately managed to get stuck.

After a while an Arab came down the path with a load of sticks on his donkey. He went away and came back with more people and together we bodily lifted the car up and carried it out.

Bright, Early

Bright and early the next morning I left for my next stop, El Golea, 320 kilometers to the south.

Defying French orders to turn back, I soon began to regret my determination to push on alone across the Sahara desert.

Between El Golea and in Salah, my next target, there is an old French army fort called Miribel. It's 143 kilometers south of El Golea. That's as far as my car got.

It was the tires. The first few miles of the track aren't too bad but then you climb up to the Plateau of the Tademait. It is the country of the black rocks.

Dead, Forlorn

The Tademait is one of the most forelorn, dead and desolate places on earth. But for Fort Miribel, the whole place is uninhabited except by snakes and scorpions.

In an area 200 miles long and 250 miles wide, there's not a drop of water.

Here the track is across sharp cutting pebbles. Sometimes there are big rocks and you have to drive out into the desert and around them. It's a terrifying place.

The first of my flat tires came when I was only 20 kilometers from Fort Miribel. I put on my spare.

Old Fort

Since the Algerian war began, the army has manned the old fort. My friend, the sergeant at El Golea, had given me a letter to the sergeant at Fort Miribel and I found the lonesome soldiers only too glad to give me a hand. They gave the car a mechanical going over.

All day the heat was fierce. The fort is an old one built in the 1870s, and the sleeping quarters are like caves in stone walls.

About noon a truck showed up. An Arab and a European came in for water. The European turned out to be a French army major on his way to Tamanrasset for his holidays.

Hitched Ride

He had hitched a ride with the truck. The truck was taking him as far as In Salah where he hoped to find another going down to Tam. We started talking and I invited him to come along with me.

We got about 30 miles from Miribel when the tires gave out. The major and I spent most of the night on an all-night march back to the fort.

The next morning I set out for the car with some soldiers in a jeep. We took all the stuff out and pushed the car out of the way of any passing traffic.

Leaving everything at Fort Miribel I got a lift on a truck back to El Golea.

Their average age is 67. The youngest in the group which began an African safari in Capetown seven months ago is five. The oldest is 86.

Camped just outside Cairo, the caravan was scheduled to enter Cairo with a motorcycle police escort.

The caravaneers who are none the worse for African wear will proceed from Cairo to Trieste, their final destination. The caravan consists of 29 trucks and specially-built trailers.

The safari originally had 106 but some of the African going mostly washboard roads and lack of creature comforts—caused dropouts along the way.

The safari members went the long way around, making many detours and stopping off to view exotic sights. Thus the high mileage—14,000 miles—for the journey.

It covered South Africa, Southern and Northern Rhodesia, Belgian Congo, Uganda, Kenya, Ethiopia and the Sudan.

Sick at heart, I sold the car.

First planted tree in Mount Tolmie park, a blue spruce placed there to mark Douglas Day in the province's centennial year of 1958, has been ruined by vandals.

Max Zabel, former chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Mount Tolmie Park development committee, said yesterday the tree, top of which had been snapped and its trunk chopped halfway through, would be replaced.

Mosquitoes, Rats in Uplands, a House All Shook Up—Is This Oak Bay?

Mosquitoes and rats in the Uplands, a house being "shook all to pieces" on the Lansdowne slope . . .

In court of revision on assessments yesterday. The complaint about mosquitoes and rats came from B. L. Brown of 2725 Lansdowne, who asked the court to reduce the assessment on his home "substantially" because, he said, a large open drainage ditch at the rear, dug by the municipality, had decreased the value of his property.

a breeding-place for mosquitoes in summer, infested by "rats in quantities," and a danger to children. The court decided to look at the property itself before making a ruling.

Sidney Smart of 2969 Foul Bay Road asked for a decrease in assessment chiefly because heavy vehicles on the bumpy road, he said, were shaking his house from one end to the other.

On the Saanich side of the street, he said, the people would never agree to anything, "because they don't have to use it. They all live in corner houses."

public works department of your municipality," court member Waldo Skillings told him. His assessment was sustained, but Mr. Smart said he would appeal. "I've had enough."

Cottages, Lodge, Fresh Water Lake

Big Marina Set for Pender

PENDER ISLAND—A marina, complete with cottages, main lodge, man-made fresh water lake, and other attractive features, is planned for Pender Island. Work on the project will start immediately.

The property, formerly occupied by National Packers

fish reduction plant, which burned down last fall, has been purchased by Shingle Bay Resorts, Ltd., a Vancouver company, whose president, Jack Morgan, flew out at the weekend and laid plans for development on a large scale. Skin divers will probe waters of the inner bay this week, and soundings will be taken for construction of a bridge across to the little island facing the channel. The abundance of fresh water flowing across part of the property will provide the source for a lake which will be stocked with trout. The marina will add materially to the tourist potential of Pender Island.

Meanwhile, another valuable property, once commercial, has changed hands. The Otter Bay site of B.C. Packers fish saltery, also burned out, four years ago, has been purchased by Prof. Douglas North, of the University of Washington, and two Los Angeles associates. Plans for the development of the property have not been made public.

$810,000 Bylaw Vote Feb. 27

Jampacked Saanich Schools Call for Building Program

Shift System Inevitable Royal Oak Principal Says

School officials yesterday called for a large turnout of Saanich peninsula voters Feb. 27 to ensure the passage of an $810,000 school bylaw.

They were backed by Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich who went further and said the school board was "remiss" in failing to put the vote a year ago last December.

"This bylaw is overdue," said the reeve. "Overcrowded conditions in our schools should not have been allowed to get so bad."

ROYAL OAK

Mr. Chatterton was referring mainly to the situation in Royal Oak Junior-Senior High School where three makeshift classrooms below ground level house some 112 students in Grade 7.

But the reeve added that overcrowding approaches these conditions in other schools in District 63.

Royal Oak principal John Clark said conditions in his school "are as acute as any in the district."

The school was built to accommodate 300 students and now is bulging with an enrolment of some 430. So great is the crush of students, the time allotted for changing classes has been increased from three to four minutes.

Mr. Chatterton, a former trustee with three children attending Royal Oak, last year organized a work bee which saw parents, students and teachers combine to build the basement activity room.

Mr. Clark said the only alternative to converting the activity room into classrooms—dubbed "the dungeons"—was to start shift classes last fall.

FAR FROM DESIRABLE

He said the basement classrooms are "far from being desirable" but meet with approval of the fire marshal.

"Two of my own youngsters are in the dungeons," said Mr. Chatterton.

"Conditions down there are terrible. It is ridiculous to call them classrooms. These rooms are quite unfit for people to work in. The lighting is unsatisfactory; the ventilation and heating is most unsatisfactory. It would be damp as well, but for the fact that when we laid the floor we put in a double layer of concrete with a moisture barrier."

NEW SCHOOL

School board chairman J. D. Helps said the $810,000 bylaw contains an allocation for a new secondary school for 300 students at nearby Wesley Road to take the pressure off Royal Oak.

Mr. Helps pointed out, however, similar situations exist at North Saanich Junior-Senior High, where the auditorium stage has been converted into classroom space, and at Mount Newton Junior-Senior High.

He said the most serious overcrowding among elementary schools in the district exists at Cordova Bay school.

NARROWLY DEFEATED

A $799,000 bylaw put to the voters last December was narrowly defeated. Trustees in resubmitting the bylaw have added $11,000 to cover needed equipment for schools.

Mr. Clark, the principal, said he will recommend this fall that the entire school go on shift classes so that the three basement classrooms can revert to use as an activity room.

He said it is inevitable that in September some students will have to go on shift.

MISS BERTHA MUIRHEAD

For Old Woman

Big Search Goes on Today

Police officers and 30 volunteers will continue their search today on the rugged slopes of Mount Newton for Miss Bertha Muirhead, 82, missing since last Wednesday.

Miss Muirhead went missing 10 days after she was admitted to Rughaven Rest Home, 943 Mount Newton Crossroad.

A tracking dog picked up the woman's scent Saturday, during the second day of searching, but soon lost it.

"There are still a number of areas I would like to search in the Mount Newton area," Central Saanich police chief F. L. Brownlee said last night.

Police have not discounted the possibility the woman may have come to Victoria. However, she had only $6 in her possession.

She is described as five feet, three inches tall, weighing 120 pounds, grey haired, wearing a grey tweed coat, brown skirt and two green sweaters under the coat, and brown shoes.

Alan Jarvis:

Art Enlarges Even If Ugly

Art in its various forms, regardless of how ugly or how shocking, should enlarge human imagination by arousing emotions, Alan Jarvis said last night.

Mr. Jarvis, editor of Canadian Art magazine, lectured nearly 300 persons in the crowded Centennial wing of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Many were turned away by a sign at the door reading "Sorry, all seats sold out. No standing room left."

Some sat on the floor. A young, red-bearded artist with long hair, wearing dungarees and carrying a rolled up canvas and box of paints under his arm, leaned against a wall.

A young woman who stood through the 45-minute lecture said "I think you got more out of it if you're standing. You've got to suffer for it."

"I believe the job of art . . . is to enlarge human experience . . . sometimes in a most painful way," said Mr. Jarvis. He let it be known that he is no champion of "pretty pictures."

As the "arch enemy of the bunny school," he said he often runs into conflict with school teachers who want only pretty pictures to be shown to the pupils.

"We learn a language of images as we do a language of words," as exemplified by such simple line forms as a swastika or a cross. "Art is as much a part of our daily life as language itself," he said.

An artist has to find some way to show how he feels . . . "to render human emotion expressive. The objective of art is not primarily concerned with beauty at all."

"Some art upsets the viewer and is designed to do that" in order to enlarge the viewer's total range of emotion, Mr. Jarvis said.

California Show Set

John Taft of Ventura, Calif., will show films of Central California at a meeting sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in Oak Bay Junior High School.

Supermarket Plans Will Go Ahead

Dominion Construction Company announced yesterday it is going ahead with plans to build a $210,000 supermarket for Canada Safeway Ltd. on its proposed shopping centre at Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway in Saanich.

Robert Bentall, vice-president of Dominion Construction, said—the supermarket would have 21,000 square feet of floor area and that construction would start this spring.

It will be the first of some eight stores proposed for the centre.

Safeway has contracted to lease the building from Dominion Construction. It will be the company's 10th supermarket in the Victoria area, an official of the grocery firm said.

Fraser, Margaree

Warships Home At 11 a.m. Today

Families of naval personnel aboard the destroyer escorts Fraser and Margaree, scheduled to return to Esquimalt base at 11 a.m. today, will meet the ships at "A" jetty, HMC Dockyard.

The ships are returning from a month-long training cruise which took them to the Hawaiian Islands.

Yesterday, three other ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, destroyer escorts Saguenay, Ottawa and St. Laurent sailed out of Esquimalt.

They are starting an operational cruise of the Pacific that will last 2½ months, taking the ships to California, Hawaii, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Japan and the Aleutian Islands. Ships return here April 29.

Aboard the destroyer escorts, getting a first-hand experience of naval operational tactics, are 23 Canadian sea cadets including one Island cadet, Alan Cox, 98 Esplanade Street, Nanaimo.

The ships will take part in joint anti-submarine exercises with vessels of the United States Navy.

Local Nudists To Be Hosts For Rally

The Victoria Sun and Sol Sante nudists clubs have merged, officials said yesterday, and will act as hosts in June for the Canadian Sunbathing Association convention.

The convention will be held at the 170-acre Sol Sante camp near Cobble Hill. Nudists from all over North America are expected to attend.

Premier Doing Well But Another MLA 'In'

Premier Bennett was reported to be making "excellent" progress yesterday at his home in convalescence from a kidney operation. He definitely plans to be in the legislature Friday to deliver his budget address.

But, over the weekend, William Murray (SC, Prince Rupert) was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for kidney tests. He was reported in good condition.

Archie Gibbs (L, Oak Bay) is home from hospital after a serious operation and expects to take his seat in the House shortly.

Acting president of the cabinet, Eric Martin, is back in his seat after a bout with the flu.

Port Renfrew People Sad About Roads

Residents of Port Renfrew are complaining about the deplorable conditions of their roads. Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt) said in the legislature last night, but added that two years ago they didn't even have roads to complain about.

Then he backed up their complaints and urged immediate reconstruction in that area.

Construction of a network of roads stretching over the Island, notably an Alberni-Cumberland cutoff and ferry connecting roads on the northern Island, was another main point of his speech.

$112 Bound For Family In Greece

A destitute mother and five children in Greece will receive a gift of $112 in the near future, thanks to the generosity of the people of Greater Victoria.

The fund to aid injured Greek sailor John Tourountos, hospitalized here for almost five months, reached that amount over the weekend. The money was originally supposed to be presented to Mr. Tourountos, but he was more concerned with the financial status of his family. The amount raised will look after the family for about two months.

Mr. Tourountos fell 45 feet into the hold of his ship, about 200 miles from Victoria. The shipping firm has since gone bankrupt, and so far there has been no compensation for the injured man.

Legislature 'At Times Like Barnum, Bailey'

Cedric Cox (CCF—Burnaby) yesterday described activities in the legislature as "at times like Roman gladiators or as a part of a Barnum and Bailey circus act."

He rebuked members for their behavior and said it was "unfortunate the amount of space newspapers give to the crossfire between members."

"But we as members are too often to blame for not always acting in a dignified and proper manner," he said. "Sometimes there are students in the galleries and it is up to us to keep debate at a high level."

He called on the government to curb unemployment by adopting a four-point program. He said there is a drastic need for more facilities at UBC, and 1,800 carpenters are out of work in the Vancouver area alone.

All overtime permits should be cancelled to permit fuller employment, he said. The fourth point was that a moratorium should be established on home purchases.

What's Cooking?

Fresh Rhubarb Pie Gives Lift to Menu

By LOUISE MOORE

It must be spring — when rhubarb, pineapple and asparagus appear on the market — and what a lift they give to the menu!

Take a good pork dinner—a stuffed shoulder of pork, a loin, tenderloins or plain pork hocks, or a pan of juicy pork chops—what a meal they make, especially topped with a fresh rhubarb pie.

DANISH PORK TENDERLOIN

For 4 to 6 servings, take 2 good-sized pork tenderloins and slit each lengthwise. Pound each with a wooden mallet. Take 3 or 4 medium apples and peel, core and chop rather coarsely. Wash and pit ½ pound of prunes and cut into small pieces. Mix and place half on each tenderloin.

Fold each loin and tie with string. Now you have two small long rolls. Brown both in hot butter on all sides. Add a small amount of water, cover tightly and cook on top of stove or bake in oven until rolls are tender, adding a little extra water if needed. The time will be about 1 hour or more.

When done, remove tenderloins to heated platter, make gravy with drippings in pan and serve with whipped potatoes, fresh asparagus or green peas and, of course, a delicious fresh rhubarb pie.

Now, instead of adding water to the pan in which the tenderloins are to be cooked, add about 1½ cups milk. Cover and cook on top of stove long and slowly. When done, thicken the milk gravy and serve with currant jelly.

RHUBARB PIE

Make up your favorite and best pie crust, or if you feel a flop at pastry making, just buy a package of the pie crust mix. Line a 9-inch pie plate with the pastry.

Wipe with a damp cloth enough tender red rhubarb to make 4 cups when sliced ¼ inch thick. Do not peel.

Mix 3 tbsp flour with 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tbsp. brown sugar and the grated rind of half an orange. Add the rhubarb and mix together lightly. Pour into the pie shell, dot with 2 tbsp. butter, arrange on top crust, pinching edges together and fluting with fingers.

Slit top for steam to escape or do so after rolling out the top crust—you can make it more fanciful then.

Bake in a hot oven (425°F) 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350°F, and continue baking until rhubarb oozes its juice and the pastry is tender, golden and flaky.

Sometimes try adding about ¼ of the sugar and flour mixture on the bottom crust. Then fill with rhubarb, add the rest of the mixture, dot with butter and finish off as suggested. Also brush the crust with milk and sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar before it goes into the oven for an interesting crust.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I'm 49 years old and feel like 100. About five years ago I became friendly with a married man—as a matter of fact he was my milkman. I was married at the time but my husband was a poor lover. Of course he knew nothing of my romance.

Seven months ago my husband passed away. I know I should stop seeing this married man but I'm lonely. I just can't make the break. The other day he took out his billfold and when I saw the picture of his wife and four beautiful children I felt like two cents. What is a lonesome widow to do?—ALONE.

Dear Alone: You can put that show on the road. If this affair has been going on five years you were whooping it up long before you were a lonesome widow. Remember? Tomorrow morning mark your milk card "NOTHING, THANK YOU." And change dairies.

I'm Cracking Up

Dear Ann: The house we live in is part of a run-down estate which my husband inherited. We share a home with his brother and family. On the adjoining lot is his sister and her family. On the other side is an unmarried sister-in-law who lives with her mother.

The brother-in-law who shares our home is a heavy drinker—or I should say, a drunk. He's home a great deal and fights with the children as if he were a child himself. My sister-in-law makes frequent trips out of town and leaves her three kids with me. My kids don't get along with hers.

My mother-in-law follows me around the house constantly when I try to clean and her yammering drives me nuts. When I see her coming I actually become dizzy and nauseated. I've begged my husband to find another place but he says we'd be crazy to move as we live very inexpensively.

I feel myself cracking up. Please help me. —SINKING FAST.

Dear Sinking: Your husband has found the most expensive way of saving money known to mankind. Tell him your sanity is at stake and he must rent you a place away from the relative settlement. In the long run it will be infinitely cheaper than institutional care for you and a housekeeper for your children.

Love at Nine

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl who is nine years old. I used to be in love with the boy next door. Our mothers used to take walks together and push us in our baby carriages. This is how we met. Then we moved away from that city. I was five years old. He didn't write to me but I can't blame him because he was only five himself and couldn't write.

This year I got a Christmas card from him but it was not the kind most people get. It was a card that somebody had sent his parents. He crossed out the sender's name and signed his own. On the bottom he wrote "please write."

Do you think that I should write to him even if he was too cheap to buy me a card himself?—DEBORAH.

Dear Deborah: The thought is what counts, and he did think about you. Write to him anyway.

Confidential to LET DOWN: This is a tough old world for most people. The only thing you can count on is your fingers. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and get back to work.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

20s Fashion Returns

Dior's flat-chested look has come to Canada. It's come in the form of this bright red wool un-curry dress worn by curvy model Elena Domo of Toronto. Like it? You'll be seeing a lot of it, regardless. Miss Domo had Canadian designer Rodolphe make up this model. His conception of the Dior idea looks like a throw-back to the '20s with flat bust-line, lowered waistline, tunic top and short skirt. Says Rodolphe: "This dress is created to cause a sensation. Not every woman will be able to wear it, but you'll be seeing plenty of modified versions of this style in the spring."

Brentwood WI Hears Public Health Talk

Brentwood WI held a short business meeting recently with Mrs. Wm. Parker presiding. Final arrangements were made for the children's annual Valentine party, to be held at the WI Hall on Feb. 12 at 7.30 p.m.

Mrs. F. Littlewood, welfare convener, introduced the speakers. The first speaker was Mrs. P. Kahr, nurses' supervisor of Public Health Service, Saanich. She spoke on the close relationship of the Women's Institutes to the work of public health. It was the late Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, superintendent of Women's Institutes in B.C. from 1926 to 1946, who in 1912 worked hard to interest people in public health. The first health unit was set up in 1917. Mrs. Kahr showed how the public health nurse works with the doctors, teachers, and sanitary inspectors. Tea was served by Mrs. V. Wood and Mrs. H. Hesketh.

Home Ownership Rights Discussed by Speaker

Pertinent facts about land registry, wills and deeds, as they affect women, were given by Miss Constance Holmes, barrister and solicitor, in her talk, "A Title in Every Home."

The talk was given at the afternoon session at the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women in the music room of the Public Library.

REGISTRY

On the completion of any land transaction the vendor receives a title and the land is registered in his name. Before such a transaction the standing of the land may be procured by a search at the land registry in the area.

Miss Holmes explained the difference in the terms joint tenancy and tenants-in-common.

In the first instance in the event of the death of either party the land automatically reverts to the survivor and no succession duties or taxes are payable. Under the common tenancy, each holds a part of the property and can be passed by the individual to a person's estate or dealt with in a will.

NEW RIGHTS

Formerly, under common law, a married woman had no rights or control over property in her husband's name, Miss Holmes said.

Under the Wife's Protection Act, property used as a home registered in the husband's name may not be disposed of without a wife's consent if she has registered an entry to the property.

MINORS, TOO

This applies to minors as well as wives over 21 years of age, the speaker pointed out. A will is something everyone should have, Miss Holmes said, though people are apt to put off doing this.

The intention of the will is important and therefore a person should strive for clarity when making one out.

Adequate provision for alternatives should also be clearly stated, Miss Holmes said.

If a will is to be contested, application should be made within six months after it has been probated.

In cases where there is no will or it has been revoked a widow or widower is entitled to the first $5,000. If there is one child, the survivor and child share the estate half and half. If there is more than one child, the widow receives one-third of the remainder and the rest is divided equally.

When a large estate is involved the widow receives $20,000 and half of the remainder if there are no children.

18 Weddings Celebrated Same Family, Cleric

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Canon Gilbert Waite performed a marriage ceremony for a young couple on a Saskatchewan Indian reserve in the early 1920s when he had just been ordained an Anglican minister.

Since then he has married one of their sons, 10 of their grandchildren and six of their great-grandchildren.

"That's a record among preachers as far as I'm concerned," the 68-year-old cleric says.

Canon Waite has devoted most of his 40 years in the north to work among the Indians. He now speaks and reads Cree besides his native English. He was born at Hawhurst, England.

His career on the remote reserve has included many rugged experiences. He has slept on a rock pile in the middle of a lake. He has walked 10 miles in 30-below-zero weather to get a doctor. He has travelled 35 miles on horseback to preach.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Correct timing is vital to the success of the defence. If, by taking a fessive, you are in danger of losing valuable time, refrain from doing so unless it is absolutely necessary. This is even more true if the auction and the preceding play suggest that the fessive won't work anyway.

While a takeout
double, or an overcall of two diamonds would both be acceptable, North made the most descriptive bid when he overcalled with one trump.
In spite of a fairly-balanced hand, South felt hearts might be a better contract, but wasn't a bit tempted by North's game try.

Declarer won the diamond lead on the board; then led the heart ace, followed by a small heart to his king. South refused to take the heart finesse because he was reasonably certain West held the queen, and also because he could not afford to let the defence attack spades before diamonds were established for a discard.

Therefore, South played a diamond, went up with the king, and continued the suit. East won with his queen and returned a spade. West took the ace, and led another spade. The spade king won in dummy; then declarer led a diamond and discarded his last spade. The defenders got a trick in each suit, and South made his contract.

If South had taken either the heart or the diamond finesse, he would have been set.

Garden Notes

'Thing' About Seeds

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As you probably know, it is my custom, when answering letters of enquiry from readers, to slip a small packet of seeds in with my reply, as a little gift. Sometimes these are seeds of new novelties sent to me by seedsmen friends in various parts of the world; sometimes they are seeds gathered in local gardens and sent in by other readers as a friendly gesture from one backyard gardener to another.

I can't take credit for any particularly generous spirit in sending out these seeds. It is just that I have a "thing" about seeds—I can't bear to see them wasted.

To me, it is almost sacrilegious to see seeds, each one containing the germ of life itself, thrown on the fire or into the ash can.

A great many more seeds come to me in the mail than I can possibly use myself, and distributing them to my correspondents is just my way of ensuring that they will be given a chance to germinate and grow.

I remember on one occasion, when answering a letter from a lady in Cobble Hill, I enclosed a packet of seeds of my favorite Morning Glory

"Heavenly Blue," thinking she would get a kick out of trying her hand growing these lovely big trumpet flowers. I got a letter back from her husband which soured the cream on the breakfast table when I read it aloud to my family.

He berated me for sending out seeds of "this terrible weed," and told me he had spent half his life in trying to eradicate Morning Glory from his property. His suggestion for the disposal of my remaining seeds was unconventional, to put it mildly.

I can sympathize with his feelings, for I, too, have done battle with Convolvulus arvensis, our common bindweed, and I don't think there is a more persistent pest in our gardens. Hoe it, chop it, dig it, fork it, and the tiniest bit of root left in the ground will sprout again, soon taking over the whole patch.

My irate correspondent didn't realize that bindweed is the only black sheep in an otherwise highly respectable family—a family which includes the tropical sweet potato. Heavenly Blue isn't the least bit invasive—in fact it dies down completely every year, and you have to start it afresh every spring from seed.

Heavenly Blue, incidentally, has a daughter making her debut this spring—a morning glory making enormous 4-inch trumpet flowers in bright blue streaked with white, called Flying Saucer. This is an annual vine grown from extremely hard seeds which need to be soaked for 24 hours before sowing to hasten germination.

It is a mistake, too, to think of the Morning Glory only as a vine, for seeds are available for bush types that make neat, compact plants only a foot or so tall, laden all summer with trumpet flowers in exquisite colors.

Given a hot, sun-baked location in the garden, these are excellent subjects for edgings and borders, window boxes, and even in the sunny rock garden.

Some of the best of these are Cambridge Blue, with clear light blue flowers; Royal Marine, in a rich royal blue; Royal Ensign, Wedgewood blue with a golden centre; Lavender Rosette in mauve, and Tricolor in deep blue, yellow and white.

There is even a perennial member of the Morning Glory family, Convolvulus cneorum, making a tiny woody shrub less than two feet tall, with attractive silvery foliage and pinky-white flowers.

Evans Acted Up a Storm

What makes "The Tempest" (seen here last week) interesting to me is its forgiving ending. This is one of Shakespeare's last plays and besides containing some of the most graceful, and elegant and mature poetry, there is a sweetness in the ending that would not have been there earlier.

Every writer—and that includes the greatest of them all—has one great theme and only one. He may toy with other themes but he will return in spite of himself to his dominant theme.

With Shakespeare the great theme is vengeance and it runs as unmistakably through his comedies as through his tragedies—as clearly through "Merry Wives of Windsor" as through "Hamlet."

Here again in "The Tempest" he is obsessed with getting even. The Duke of Milan (Maurice Evans) is his protagonist and almost from the outset he has the means of vengeance at hand, his enemies delivered to him in his island abode.

It was an impressive cast assembled by producer-director George Schaefer. Heading it was that old pro Maurice Evans, who looks like a benign Mephistopheles, as Prospero and was properly resonant and ducal. Roddy McDowall was thoroughly made up as Ariel and it was rather difficult to judge him as an actor, so buried was he in grease paint.

Lee Remick, the same girl who played the flashy wife in "Anatomy of a Murder," was fresh and utterly lovely as, Prospero's daughter, and Richard Burton was a marvelously brutish and sullen and oddly appealing Caliban.

Week in week out, one of my favorite programs on the air is "Small World." If television has done much to destroy the art of conversation this program has done much to restore it and restore it in its best sense.

Here some of the great brains and the great personalities of the world challenge one another and you can hear some great thoughts and some prickly ones.

I was captivated a week ago to hear Cassandra take George Gallup apart for what he called "mass thinking." "We have a most intelligent and most reprehensible man here and I think we should deal with him," said Cassandra in one of the bluntest statements I have ever heard on that show.

Cassandra, the British pundit, pointed out that it was the duty of leaders to lead, not just to follow, a marvelously simple thought that seems to have gotten lost in this generation, especially on television.

TV is the greatest medium in the world for displaying brains and personality and this program does it so well. Even when you disagree you come away feeling you have advanced your experience and your thinking.

Canadian as Christ?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Canadian actor Christopher Plumber has been asked to portray Christ in Samuel Bronston's production of "The King of Kings." When H. B. Warner played the part for Cecil B. de Mille, he was not allowed to drink or smoke in public, or to take his meals with the other players. Which makes me wonder about Mr. Plumber.

Olivia de Havilland, by the way, is set for the title role in "Mother Cabrini," the great story of the dedicated Italian-born U.S. nun, now a saint. Curtis Bernhardt will make the movie in Rome.

Dorothy Lamour is going into training for "Road to Hong Kong," with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, of course.

Betty Hutton is being sued for $300,000 by Danny Kaye's former manager, Eddie Dukoff. But with Betty's show Goldie being cancelled, will Eddie be able to collect?

Robert Mitchum leased a luxurious apartment from Mrs. Michael Wilding in London for the duration of "The Sundowners" and "The Grass Is Greener" locationing. But, he told the just-arrived Mrs. Mitchum, Jayne Mansfield was the former tenant and "there is just too much pink around." Mrs. Mitchum removed it.

Greg Bautzer presented wife Dana Wynter with a diamond necklace to mark the arrival of what he hopes will be the first of many bouncing Bautzers.

Still with the baby set, Rod Steiger will put part of the $300,000 he expects from "Al Capone" into a trust fund for the baby expected by wife Claire Bloom.

Glynis Johns has to redo all her dialogue for "The Sundowners"—her Australian accent was no good, and clashed with Deborah Kerr's, which was perfect.

Dimpled darling Terry Moore might retire after the baby she expects this year with Stuart Kramer III. Score for Terry: Third marriage, first child.

With Marilyn Monroe filming "Let's Make Love," her ever-loving husband Arthur Miller took off for a visit with John Huston, who is laid up in his drafty castle in Ireland recuperating from a broken leg. While discussing the state of the world, the director and the writer will discuss "The Misfits," Marilyn's next, and the first movie written for her by her husband. If it clicks, there will surely be more.

Fragments from Exodus

Found in Obscure Cave

New 'Dead Sea Scrolls' Turn Up

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Archaeologists hope they may have uncovered another cache of Dead Sea Scrolls in an obscure cave once used as a hideout by rebels against the Romans.

They reported finding fragments of parchment scrolls, believed to have been written about the same time as the Dead Sea Scrolls, the other verses 11 to 16 of the same chapter.

The scrolls are the first found on the Israeli side of the Dead Sea. Experts said they give promise of more such finds in the area.

Dr. Yohanan Aharoni said he believes there are at least three more hidden nearby.

The fragments found last week were dug out of caves overlooking the Dead Sea some three miles north of Massada.

His Pay Stood Still For Half a Century

DEVENTER, The Netherlands (Reuters)—Farmhand Hendrik Bally worked for 59 years on an isolated Dutch farm and last week, at the age of 65, he received his first weekly state pension—18 guilders ($5). Hendrik told pension officers there must be overpaying him. They assured him the amount was correct and asked why he had doubts. The farmhand explained that at the farm he had received 2½ guilders (70 cents) weekly.

Hendrik had not had a pay increase in half a century.

Disc Jockeys On Probation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Boston radio executive told House investigators yesterday that two of his station's disc jockeys have been put on "probationary status" after admitting they accepted gifts from record distributors.

Paul O'Friel, general manager of radio station WBZ, denied the gifts were "payola" but said the action was taken as a result of the station's inquiry into favors from distributors.

Donald Hyatt, producer for the web's "Project 20" series, says he and his group were so impressed with the favorable reaction to their recent production of Abraham Lincoln's life that they decided to go ahead with Christ's story. "Lincoln always died at the box office," Hyatt said. "And when our show was such a success I think it proved you can say important things if you say them entertainingly." Explaining that no program could possibly tell the full story of the Saviour's life in a half-hour show, Hyatt said, "We don't presume to do that, because you could spend a lifetime on it, but we do feel a good essay can be done on Him in 26 minutes of dramatic programming on a half-hour show."

Hyatt said he planned to use the still-picture technique which proved successful in the Hyatt also said the show will be a narration without actors.

"What we want to do is to humanize Christ," he said. "If we can retain the essence of the man, we can evade the pitfalls of pedestrian history such as getting immersed in factual details."

"Fact can be used in such a way sometimes that it defeats your purpose," he added. "We'll base our story on fact but let the scholars take care of the details."

Air Vice-Marshals

'Brass' Clashes Over Shorts

LONDON (Reuters)—Two air vice-marshals clashed in court Monday when one sued the other for statements in a book about war-time experiences, including an allegation that the plaintiff turned up in downtown Montreal in shorts.

Air vice-marshal Donald Bennett, author of a book entitled Pathfinder, was sued for libel by air vice-marshal William Staton.

The disputed passages give an alleged description of how Bennett once rebuked Staton, who then was a group captain, for wearing shorts in Montreal and then found himself reporting to an airdrome where Staton was station commander.

Staton's lawyer made clear in court that Frederick Muller Ltd., publishers of the book, have withdrawn the passages, apologized in open court, and paid damages.

Bennett denies the passages were defamatory and pleads that they were true.

Beer Giant Not Guilty Of Combine

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Breweries Ltd. won acquittal yesterday on charges of operating a beer-making combine which Ontario's chief justice described as "the first case of its kind based firmly on the operation of a company as a merger."

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario Supreme Court found the company not guilty on charges brought by the government under the Combines Investigation Act alleging that the company had operated a merger that did or was likely to operate against the public interest.

The chief justice said there was in fact a merger, but testimony failed to support charges that it operated against the public interest.

Argentines Keeping 'Death Watch' on Trapped Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina confirmed officially last night that it has surface and aerial craft on a "round the clock" "death watch" over a mysterious unidentified submarine trapped in the narrow-mouthed Golfo Nuevo Inlet

630 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Navy Secretary Rear-Admiral Gaston Clement said the submarine had been attacked "several times" since Feb. 4. He could not say whether the submersible still was bottled up or had managed to escape. "The (submarine) commander would be an idiot if he did not do everything possible to escape," the admiral remarked tersely.

Seven Argentine warships ranging from anti-submarine patrol craft to cruisers are poised in the still waters of Golfo Nuevo, in Argentina's Patagonian region, seeking a "kill" of the mystery submersible, Clement said. Aerial reconnaissance units overhead include Corsair fighter planes and Neptune flying boats, the latter equipped with depth-charges.

It was reported without official confirmation that the sonar equipment of the Argentine warships had picked up sounds indicating the crew of the submarine was attempting to make repairs. There was widespread speculation the underwater craft may be nuclear-powered, which would account for the high speed attributed to it by some newspaper accounts. The naval announcement ended 48 hours of official silence on the subject of the submarine. Golfo Nuevo is the usual summer manoeuvring area of the Argentine fleet. It lies astride the vital tanker route from the principal oil fields at Comodoro Rivadavia and Buenos Aires. A mystery submarine was attacked by Argentine naval forces in the same general area last year but its ultimate fate was never established although it disappeared leaving an oil slick behind.

Strike Britain Faces Crisis

Police Leaves Cancelled

LONDON (AP) — The government is planning urgent measures to meet a food and fuel crisis threatened by a nation-wide rail strike due to start at midnight Sunday.

Acting Prime Minister Richard A. Butler called an emergency cabinet meeting for today to plan how to keep the nation fed and the factories working while the strike by 355,000 members of the National Union of Railwaymen lasts.

STRICT MEASURES
If the strike goes through, the government is expected to declare a state of emergency and rule through 11 regional directors with power to ration transport and supplies.

Police leave has been cancelled already and industries have been warned to stock up with fuel and steel.

WON'T WAIT
The railway men, who are demanding a big immediate pay rise, are mostly ticket collectors, porters, signalmen and guards.

An independent tribunal studying their pay has promised to report by early April. Union leaders have said they're tired of waiting and want their pay increased now. The workers are among Britain's lowest paid workers.

Judge Found In River

CALGARY (CP) — The body of Mr. Justice W. Gordon Egbert of the Supreme Court of Alberta was recovered Monday from the Elbow River in South Calgary a few blocks from his home.

Police said foul play was not suspected and no inquest other than a routine autopsy will be held.

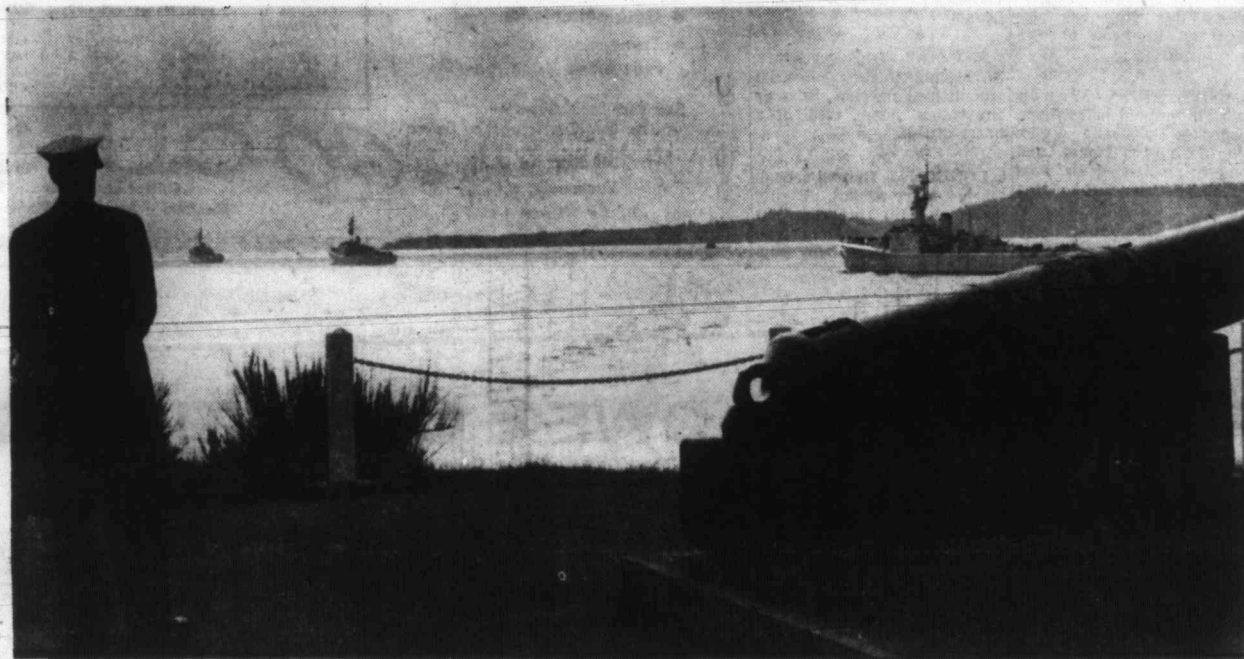

Mr. Justice Egbert, 67, was last seen alive shortly before midnight Sunday by a taxi driver who dropped him off near his home.

The body was found by the cab driver who undertook a search for his own when Mr. Justice Egbert's family reported to the cab company that he had not returned home.

Firemen who recovered the body shortly after noon said it was completely submerged except for a hand which grasped onto a piece of ice. All of the river except an open section in the middle was frozen over.

Murderer Hangs In Ontario Jail

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Marvin McKee, 20, who willed his eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada, was hanged early today for the murder of Huntsville taxi-driver Bruce Spiers, 22. He was only the eighth person hanged in Canada in 2½ years. Prison officials said he confessed his crime and died quietly.

TORONTO (CP) — No country has more to lose than Canada if Russia should launch an all-out trade offensive on the West, says V. C. Wansbrough, head of the Canadian Metal Mining Association.

"Our geographical location, our geology, and hence our mineral resources, are similar. The U.S.S.R. has the same primary products to sell as we have."

World Fair Plan Backed by Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI) — A $10,000,000 world's fair in Montreal and the Province of Quebec for the world's fair.

Support of the provisional national committee on Canada's Centennial for the Quebec plan means that the federal government will put up an estimated $20,000,000 to match a similar contribution by Quebec and Montreal.

The federal-provincial conference to work out plans for the centennial celebrations, "agreed unanimously" to support the bid by Montreal and the Province of Quebec for the world's fair.

The Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East told the Montreal Canadian Club that Canada's participation in the 10-nation meeting on the basis of the country's experience and international prestige as a peace-maker. The proposals should be presented with force.

He said Canada should have the "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

The U.S. had turned tough when Russia had appeared to be on the verge of becoming more reasonable.

Russia, he said, will bear the "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared here last night that Russia and its eastern European satellite nations would fight rather than allow any change in Germany's post-war borders.

"We declare that what has been modified by war cannot be modified again without war," Khrushchev said during a verbal duel with visiting Italian President Giovanni Gronchi at an Italian embassy reception.

The Soviet premier insisted that a peace treaty with Germany was necessary for "stabilizing a situation provoked by war" and that any agreement must include establishing the frontiers set by the Second World War.

An Italian news agency says Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev urged Gronchi to remain in the Soviet Union.

"Don't lose your time, don't go back and don't be preoccupied by a question of political party," Khrushchev was quoted as telling Gronchi.

Gronchi replied: "I would like to present Premier Khrushchev with a good wish. Maybe some day, touched by divine grace, he will enter the Christian Democratic party."

The secretary said there was no question that the Soviet leader was talking more sternly about Berlin and Germany than he did three months ago.

Herter cited Communist declarations that the Red bloc would make a separate pact with Communist East Germany and let the Allies take the "consequences" if the West refused to agree to a peace treaty with divided Germany on Russian terms.

The secretary said that if Russia announces any one-sided action on Germany before there is full discussion with the Allies, it will violate the spirit of the agreement reached by Khrushchev and President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., last fall.

He said Canada should have the "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

For Five Years Moon Flight 'Too Risky' —Canadian

WINNIPEG (CP) — A leading Canadian scientist said Monday neither the Russians nor anyone else is likely to land a manned rocket on the moon within the next five years.

Dr. William Petrie, operations research superintendent of the Defence Research Board, said difficulty of landing is the big problem.

Another is that the most advanced propulsion system now is "still a major headache. It's a pretty risky operation to project a man into space with what we now have."

Reds Talk Tougher As Arms Improve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian Herter said Monday Russia's military gains may explain why Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is taking a tougher attitude on Berlin and East-West issues.

Herter cited Communist declarations that the Red bloc would make a separate pact with Communist East Germany and let the Allies take the "consequences" if the West refused to agree to a peace treaty with divided Germany on Russian terms.

The secretary said that if Russia announces any one-sided action on Germany before there is full discussion with the Allies, it will violate the spirit of the agreement reached by Khrushchev and President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., last fall.

He said Canada should have the "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

The U.S. had turned tough when Russia had appeared to be on the verge of becoming more reasonable.

Russia, he said, will bear the "major responsibility" for any failure of such meetings but "by no means the sole responsibility."

All Talk, No Action Kiernan Tells House

If the hydro development hassle in British Columbia continues much longer with a lot of talk and no action, natural gas may step in and do the job.

Fulton on Power

Columbia Tops Seaway

TORONTO (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said Monday night the development of the Columbia River holds even greater promise for the people of British Columbia than the St. Lawrence Seaway project did for the people of Ontario and Quebec.

The stumbling block in the way of this realization is that the Columbia is an international river, he said. But he told the Toronto board of trade that a solution "seems to be in sight."

CO-OPERATE

Mr. Fulton spoke here on the eve of a meeting in Ottawa with representatives of the B.C. government to discuss how the two might co-operate on the proposed project and to hear the province's suggestions on what the federal government might say Thursday when it meets a United States delegation. The Canada-U.S. meeting is to consider the recent benefit-sharing suggestions of the International Joint Commission.

Last December the joint commission recommended a 50-50 split of the benefits of increased downstream power accruing from Canadian power installations proposed along the Columbia where it flows through Canada. Mr. Fulton said this broke the "log-jam" of conflicting interests over sharing of downstream benefits.

BASIC STEP

"The basic step has been taken and it now remains for us to reach a detailed agreement for developing the river's potential within the framework of these principles," he said.

That was the warning given yesterday to the B.C. legislature by Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who as well as being minister in charge of the natural gas and petroleum resources is a member of the B.C. Power Commission.

MORE POLITICS

"There is more politics than production in the hydro (Columbia vs. Peace) hassle. Natural gas resources could quite effectively take over the job hydro is expected to do," he said.

"It might come as a surprise to you to hear that in 1959 B.C. gas wells produced more energy than all the energy produced by hydro in the same year," he said.

WORTHY OF NOTE

He converted the natural gas produced in B.C. to British thermal units and said "it is worthy of note that in the year 1959, the natural gas produced in B.C. in terms of thermal units was equal to 145 per cent of all the electrical energy produced in B.C. in that same year."

He noted that "uses for electrical energy and natural gas, as energy, are often parallel." He pointed out B.C.P.C. thermal units in the north have created great savings by using natural gas instead of diesel oil.

BIG DISCOVERIES

The mines minister referred to tremendous gas discoveries at Clarke Lake, Kootenai Lake and Pettit River.

"It is entirely possible that drilling of a limited number of wells in these three areas could almost overnight double gas production of this province," he said.

Ski Weather Turns Sour

Speaking Briefly

Squaw Valley Lashed by Rain

A blizzard, whipped along by 100-mile-an-hour winds, attempted to erase the last vestiges of the weekend downpour that almost ruined preparations for the Winter Olympics that begin at Squaw Valley, Calif., a week Thursday.

Almost six inches of rain came down in the torrent, threatening several buildings and skating rinks and making the 10,000-car parking lot into a gigantic lake. Several smaller buildings and trees were blown over.

The Olympic Village, however, was not seriously threatened.

NEW YORK defenceman

Bill Gadsby has branded as "ridiculous" a charge that he led a conspiracy against Ranger coach Phil Watson. Gadsby, who Saturday set a major college basketball scoring record for most number of points in a season, last night broke his own single game scoring record with 62 points against North Texas State. Cincinnati won, 123-74. Jesse Owens, one of the United States' great track stars of former years, says his jumper John Thomas is "one of the most superb athletes I've ever seen." Owens continued "the world has seldom been gifted with an athlete of his talent and temperament. He has the final requirement for a champion—courage."

ARNOLD PALMER collected a cheque for $12,000, his biggest payday in five years on the pro circuit, after winning the $100,000 Palm Springs Classic Sunday. Vancouver's Stan Leonard won $1,350 for a 12th-place tie with Jack Burke Jr. and Art Wall. All were nine strokes behind Palmer. Nobody besides Joe Campbell registered a hole in one so the $50,000 he won Friday was all his to divide with two partners. Toronto Argos football player Dave Mann pleaded not guilty in Toronto to a charge of illegally possessing marijuana.

Winnipeg Warriors have signed up Warren Haig, a Boston farmhand, for the rest of the season. Bill Fulcher, veteran of four seasons with Washington Redskins, has signed with B.C. Lions as a guard-line backer. Dickie Moore, who suffered a concussion on Saturday's NHL game, will be in hospital and lost to Montreal Canadiens at least a week.

TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS have approached Red Kelly, who retired from hockey last week after refusing to report to New York on being traded by Detroit Red Wings. Wings are agreeable to a deal with Leafs, possibly involving Leaf defenceman Marc Reaume.

Detroit Red Wings have called up Edmonton defenceman Lloyd Hadron. National Boxing Association has warned Don Jordan that it will take his world welterweight boxing title away if he doesn't sign for a defence with one of four top contenders this month.

Memorial Arena took on aspects of a battlefield Monday night as the Commercial Hockey League play-offs opened with Patterson Construction upsetting Army 5-3 and Navy humiliating Vics 11-1.

An enthusiastic crowd of 850 watched the games and in the brawling feature game generally irked Navy players into what could easily have turned into a riot.

Referees Hank Hinkle and Mel Padgett were unable to control the game. Final count

Dutchies Win Again

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen won the fifth straight game of their western tour here Monday night when they defeated the surprisingly strong Kamloops Chiefs 7-6.

Kitchener-Waterloo plays at Vernon tonight and wind up their western tour in Vancouver Wednesday night.

Alf Cadman scored three goals to lead the Chiefs. Other Kamloops goals were scored by Russ Kowalchuk, Buddy Evans and Gordie Matheson.

showed 63 minutes in penalties that included a game misconduct, match misconduct, two 10-minute misconducts and a major.

Navy played the hockey, using a checker-board passing system to completely befuddle Vics. Carrying the major share of scoring was Neil Standley who scored six goals, three of them within 55 seconds in the final period.

The trouble started at the 13-minute mark of the second period with Navy holding a 2-1 lead. During a scuffle in front of the Vics goal, Standley was hit over the head by goaltender Ron Griffiths and then provoked into a fight by defenceman Leo Kozak.

Kozak received a minor and Standley a minor. From this point on Vics forgot about hockey.

The breaking point came early in the third period when Vics defenceman Doug Bamforth closed his hand over the puck while trying to clear.

Bamforth was given a minor penalty, followed by another minor to Lonnie Restall of Vics for arguing the decision and a misconduct penalty to Art Pike, also of Vics, for objecting from the bench.

AT 7:55 Griffiths of Vics was cut during a goalmouth scramble. Players from Vics swarmed after referees Hinkle and Padgett, claiming a penalty should have been given to Navy.

Bob Caldwell of Vics received a minor penalty for protesting too strenuously. Ron Jay of Vics took up from there and Hinkle promptly banished him with a much-deserved game misconduct.

Then fiery Johnny Bond of Navy skated from his bench to the boards, climbed over, to fight, with a heckling fan. Bond left the game with a match misconduct.

IN THE MEANTIME, Vics' players Steve Merriman, Jim McNeill, Restall and Bob Harris returned to the dressing room in defiance of the officials and remained there.

NEW YORK (CP)—The or- ley, Calif. Monday forced the organizers of the 1960 winter Olympic games at Squaw Val-er to scrap its round-

robin Olympic hockey schedule and substitute another one calling for eliminations.

A U.S. Olympic official said the organizers protested that it would be impossible to run off the 36-game schedule approved earlier by the IIHF. The organizers insisted they could handle no more than 30 games.

The IIHF quickly went back to the same system that was used during the 1956 winter games at Cortina Italy.

Under the schedule drawn Monday, nine countries were divided into three pools of three teams each. The first two in each pool, after three days of round-robin play, will advance to a six-team round-robin final. The third place teams will meet in a consolation tournament to decide seventh, eighth and ninth places.

The schedule for the elimination pools:

Thursday, Feb. 18—United States vs. Czechoslovakia, Canada vs. Sweden, Russia vs. Germany.

Friday, Feb. 19—Czechoslovakia vs. Australia, Canada vs. Japan, Russia vs. Finland.

Saturday, Feb. 20—United States vs. Australia, Sweden vs. Japan, Germany vs. Finland.

Mr. McBrien said the new rules will be adopted by all junior and intermediate sections of the CRU. Other unions, such as high schools, will have the option of adopting some of the changes.

One of the two major changes has been used with CRU consent for the past two seasons by the semi-professional Ontario Rugby Football Union and the eastern Inter-Collegiate Football Union.

This allows blocking over the length of the field for linemen and the two "privileged" halfbacks on running plays and screen passes.

The other main change introduces unlimited blocking on intercepted forward and lateral passes.

Mount Douglas completed an undefeated season in the inter-high school senior girls basketball league by defeating Victoria High 38-30 Monday afternoon at Victoria High.

points while Carol Cassillo and Lynette Watson had six each.

Susan Mason of Victoria High led both teams with 11 points.

Mount Douglas led 26-16 at half-time.

Mosquitoes, Rats in Uplands, a House All Shook Up—Is This Oak Bay?

Mosquitoes and rats in the Uplands, a house being "shook all to pieces" on the Lansdowne slope . . .

A stranger might have had a horrible picture of Oak Bay in court of revision on assessments yesterday.

The complaint about mosquitoes and rats came from B. L. Brown of 2725 Lansdowne, who asked the court to reduce the assessment on his home "substantially" because, he said, a large open drainage ditch at the rear, dug by the municipality, had decreased the value of his property.

It was an eyesore, he said, a breeding-place for mosquitoes in summer, infested by "rats in quantities," and a danger to children.

The court decided to look at the property itself before making a ruling.

Sidney Smart of 2969 Foul Bay Road asked for a decrease in assessment chiefly because heavy vehicles on the bumpy road, he said, were shaking his house from one end to the other.

On the Saanich side of the street, he said, the people would never agree to anything, "because they don't have to use it. They all live in corner houses."

Cottages, Lodge, Fresh Water Lake

Big Marina Set for Pender

PENDER ISLAND—A marina, complete with cottages, main lodge, man-made fresh water lake, and other attractive features, is planned for Pender Island. Work on the project will start immediately.

The property, formerly occupied by National Packers

fish reduction plant, which burned down last fall, has been purchased by Shingle Bay Resorts, Ltd., a Vancouver company, whose president, Jack Morgan, flew out at the weekend and laid plans for development on a large scale.

Standard Oil Company will service the marina; and skin divers will probe the waters of the inner bay this week, and soundings will be taken for construction of a bridge across to the little island facing the channel. The abundance of fresh water flowing across part of the property will provide the source for a lake which will be stocked with trout. The marina will add materially to the tourist potential of Pender Island.

Meanwhile, another valuable property, once commercial, has changed hands. The Otter Bay site of B.C. Packers fish saltery, also burned out, four years ago, has been purchased by Prof. Douglas North, of the University of Washington, and two Los Angeles associates. Plans for the development of the property have not been made public.

$810,000 Bylaw Vote Feb. 27

Jampacked Saanich Schools Call for Building Program

Shift System Inevitable Royal Oak Principal Says

School officials yesterday called for a large turnout of Saanich peninsula voters Feb. 27 to ensure the passage of an $810,000 school bylaw.

They were backed by Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich who went further and said the school board was "remiss" in failing to put the vote a year ago last December.

"This bylaw is overdue," said the reeve. "Overcrowded conditions in our schools should not have been allowed to get so bad."

ROYAL OAK
Mr. Chatterton was referring mainly to the situation in Royal Oak Junior-Senior High School where three makeshift classrooms below ground level house some 112 students in Grade 7.

But the reeve added that overcrowding approaches these conditions in other schools in District 63.

Royal Oak principal John Clark said conditions in his

school "are as acute as any in the district."

The school was built to accommodate 300 students and now is bulging with an enrolment of some 430. So great is the crush of students, the time allotted for changing classes has been increased from three to four minutes.

Mr. Chatterton, a former trustee with three children attending Royal Oak, last year organized a work bee which saw parents, students and teachers combine to build the basement activity room.

Mr. Clark said the only alternative to converting the activity room into classrooms—dubbed "the dungeons"—was to start shift classes last fall.

FAR FROM DESIRABLE
He said the basement classrooms are "far from being desirable" but meet with approval of the fire marshal.

"Two of my own youngsters are in the dungeons," said Mr. Chatterton.

"Conditions down there are terrible. It is ridiculous to call them classrooms."

"These rooms are quite unfit for people to work in. The lighting is unsatisfactory; the ventilation and heating is most unsatisfactory. It would be damp as well, but for the fact that when we laid the floor we put in a double layer of concrete with a moisture barrier."

NEW SCHOOL

School board chairman J. D. Helps said the $810,000 bylaw contains an allocation for a new secondary school for 300 students at nearby Wesley Road to take the pressure off Royal Oak.

Mr. Helps pointed out, however, similar situations exist at North Saanich Junior-Senior High, where the auditorium stage has been converted into classroom space, and at Mount Newton Junior-Senior High.

He said the most serious overcrowding among elementary schools in the district exists at Cordova Bay school.

NARROWLY DEFEATED

A $799,000 bylaw put to the voters last December was narrowly defeated. Trustees in resubmitting the bylaw have added $11,000 to cover needed equipment for schools.

Mr. Clark, the principal, said that the entire school go on shift classes so that the three basement classrooms can revert to use as an activity room. He said it is inevitable that in September some students will have to go on shift.

MISS BERTHA MUIRHEAD

For Old Woman

Big Search Goes on Today

Police officers and 30 volunteers will continue their search today on the rugged slopes of Mount Newton for Miss Bertha Muirhead, 82, missing since last Wednesday.

Miss Muirhead went missing 10 days after she was admitted to Ruggback Rest Home, 943 Mount Newton Crossroad.

A tracking dog picked up the woman's scent Saturday, during the second day of searching, but soon lost it.

"There are still a number of areas I would like to search in the Mount Newton area," Central Saanich police chief F. L. Brownlee said last night. Police have not discounted the possibility the woman may have come to Victoria. However, she had only $6 in her possession.

She is described as five feet, three inches tall, weighing 120 pounds, grey haired, wearing a grey tweed coat, brown skirt and two green sweaters under the coat, and brown shoes.

Alan Jarvis:

Art Enlarges Even If Ugly

Art in its various forms, regardless of how ugly or how shocking, should enlarge human imagination by arousing emotions, Alan Jarvis said last night.

Mr. Jarvis, editor of Canadian Art magazine, lectured nearly 300 persons in the crowded Centennial wing of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Many were turned away by a sign at the door reading "Sorry, all seats sold out. No standing room left."

Some sat on the floor. A young, red-bearded artist with long hair, wearing dungarees and carrying a rolled up canvas and box of paints under his arm, leaned against a wall.

A young woman who stood through the 45-minute lecture said "I think you get more out of it if you're standing. You've got to suffer for it."

"I believe the job of art . . . is to enlarge human experience . . . sometimes in a most painful way," said Mr. Jarvis. He let it be known that he is no champion of "pretty pictures." As the "arch enemy of the bunny school," he said he often runs into conflict with school teachers who want only pretty pictures to be shown to the pupils.

Westwood Today

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood will lead off the throne speech debate today at 2 p.m. Other speakers are Rae Eddie (CCF, New Westminster), Gordon L. Gibson (SC, Delta), and Arvid Lundell (SC, Revelstoke).

Sure-Fire Harbingers of Spring

They don't claim to know anything about weather forecasting, but spring usually isn't far away when boys like Robert Slater, 11, left; Wilf Hollinger, 12, centre, and Robert Coburn, 12, of North Ward School, start playing marbles in the school yard. — (Colonist photo.)

Fraser, Margaree

Warships Home At 11 a.m. Today

Families of naval personnel aboard the destroyer escorts Fraser and Margaree, scheduled to return to Esquimalt base at 11 a.m. today, will meet the ships at "A" jetty, HMC Dockyard.

The ships are returning from a month-long training cruise which took them to the Hawaiian Islands.

Yesterday, three other ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, destroyer escorts Saguenay, Ottawa and St. Laurent sailed out of Esquimalt.

They are starting an operational cruise of the Pacific that will last 2½ months, taking the ships to California, Hawaii, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Japan and the Aleutian Islands. Ships return here April 29.

Aboard the destroyer escorts, getting a first-hand experience of naval operational tactics, are 23 Canadian sea cadets including one Island cadet, Alan Cox, 98 Esplanade Street, Nanaimo.

The ships will take part in joint anti-submarine exercises with vessels of the United States Navy.

Local Nudists To Be Hosts For Rally

The Victoria Sun and Sol Sante nudists clubs have merged, officials said yesterday, and will act as hosts in June for the Canadian Sunbathing Association convention.

The convention will be held at the 170-acre Sol Sante camp near Cobble Hill. Nudists from all over North America are expected to attend.

Premier Doing Well But Another MLA 'In'

Premier Bennett was reported to be making "excellent" progress yesterday at his home in convalescence from a kidney operation. He definitely plans to be in the legislature Friday to deliver his budget address.

But, over the weekend, William Murray (SC, Prince Rupert) was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for kidney tests. He was reported in good condition.

Archie Gibbs (L, Oak Bay) is home from hospital after a serious operation and expects to take his seat in the House shortly.

Acting president of the cabinet, Eric Martin, is back in his seat after a bout with the flu.

Port Renfrew People Sad About Roads

Residents of Port Renfrew are complaining about the deplorable conditions of their roads. Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt) said in the legislature last night, but added that two years ago they didn't even have roads to complain about.

Then he backed up their complaints and urged immediate reconstruction in that area.

Construction of a network of roads stretching over the Island, notably an Alberni-Cumberland cutoff and ferry connecting roads on the northern shore, was another main point of his speech.

$112 Bound For Family In Greece

A destitute mother and five children in Greece will receive a gift of $112 in the near future, thanks to the generosity of the people of Greater Victoria.

The fund to aid injured Greek sailor John Tourontos, hospitalized here for almost five months, reached that amount over the weekend. The money was originally supposed to be presented to Mr. Tourontos, but he was more concerned with the financial status of his family. The amount raised will look after the family for about two months.

Mr. Tourontos fell 45 feet into the hold of his ship, about 200 miles from Victoria. The shipping firm has since gone bankrupt, and so far there has been no compensation for the injured man.

Price of Eggs Takes Tumble; Lowest Now in Past 10 Years

The price of eggs took a double tumble in the Victoria area yesterday and the new level is believed to be the lowest in the past 10 years.

All sizes of grade "A" eggs dropped by four cents a dozen making the retail price 42-44 cents a dozen.

The first announcement was that the drop would be of two cents a dozen, but this was not found sufficient to hold the line against heavy offerings from Alberta, and yesterday afternoon a further drop of two cents a dozen was declared by the leading egg distributors on the Island.

The new producer price of 25 cents a dozen for large eggs is eight cents below the government's new weighted average of 33 cents on which it is going to base its deficiency payments.

to curb unemployment by adopting a four-point program. He said there is a drastic need for more facilities at UBC; and 1,800 carpenters are out of work in the Vancouver area alone.

Legislature 'At Times Like Barnum, Bailey'

Cedric Cox (CCF—Burnaby) yesterday described activities in the legislature as "at times like Roman gladiators or as a part of a Barnum and Bailey circus act."

He rebuked members for their behavior and said it was "unfortunate the amount of space newspapers give to the crossfire between members."

"But we as members are too often to blame for not always acting in a dignified and proper manner," he said. "Sometimes there are students in the galleries and it is up to us to keep debate at a high level."

He called on the government

All overtime permits should be cancelled to permit fuller employment, he said. The fourth point was that a moratorium should be established on home purchases.

Argentines Keeping 'Death Watch' on Trapped Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina confirmed officially last night that it has surface and aerial craft on a "round the clock" "death watch" over a mysterious unidentified submarine trapped in the narrow-mouthed Golfo Nuevo Inlet

630 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Navy Secretary Rear-Admiral Gaston Clement said the submarine had been attacked "several times" since Feb. 4. He could not say whether the submersible still was bottled up or had managed to escape. "The (submarine) commander would be an idiot if he did not do everything possible to escape," the admiral remarked tersely.

Seven Argentine warships ranging from anti-submarine patrol craft to cruisers are poised in the still waters of Golfo Nuevo, in Argentina's Patagonian region, seeking a "kill" of the mystery submersible, Clement said. Aerial reconnaissance units overhead include Corsair fighter planes and Neptune flying boats, the latter equipped with depth charges.

It was reported without official confirmation that the sonar equipment of the Argentine warships had picked up sounds indicating the crew of the submarine was attempting to make repairs. There was widespread speculation the underwater craft may be nuclear-powered, which would account for the high speed attributed to it by some newspaper accounts.

The naval announcement ended 48 hours of official silence on the subject of the submarine. Golfo Nuevo is the usual summer manoeuvring area of the Argentine fleet. It lies astride the vital tanker route from the principal oil fields at Comodoro Rivadavia and Buenos Aires. A mystery submarine was attacked by Argentine naval forces in the same general area last year but its ultimate fate was never established although it disappeared leaving an oil slick behind.

Natural Gas May Take Over, Kiernan Warns

Strike

Britain Faces Crisis

LONDON (AP) — The government is planning urgent measures to meet a food and fuel crisis threatened by a nation-wide rail strike due to start at midnight Sunday.

Acting Prime Minister Richard A. Butler called an emergency cabinet meeting for today to plan how to keep the nation fed and the factories working while the strike by 355,000 members of the National Union of Railwaymen lasts.

STRICT MEASURES

If the strike goes through, the government is expected to declare a state of emergency and rule through 11 regional directors with power to ration transport and supplies.

Police leaves have been cancelled already and industries have been warned to stock up with fuel and steel.

Judge

Found In River

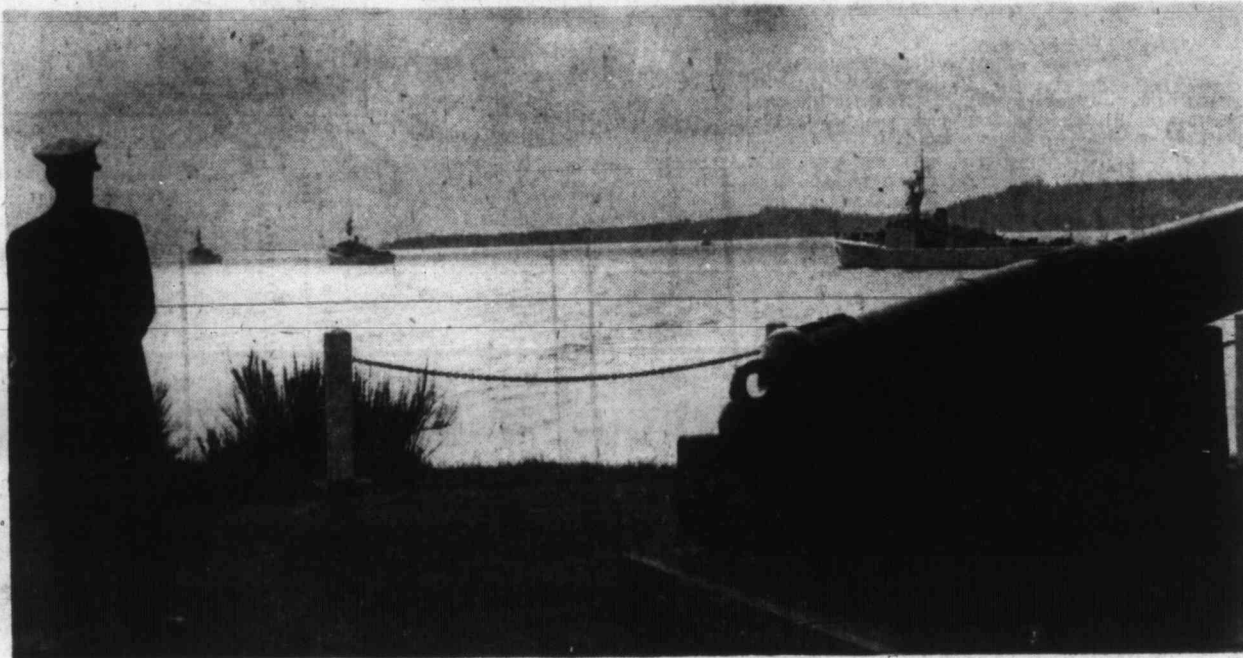

CALGARY (CP)—The body of Mr. Justice W. Gordon Egbert of the Supreme Court of Alberta was recovered Monday from the Elbow River in South Calgary a few blocks from his home.

Police said foul play was not suspected and no inquest other than a routine autopsy will be held.

Mr. Justice Egbert, 67, was last seen alive shortly before midnight Sunday by a taxi driver who dropped him off near his home.

The body was found by the cab driver who undertook a search on his own when Mr. Justice Egbert's family reported to the cab company that he had not returned home.

Firemen who recovered the body shortly after noon said it was completely submerged except for a hand which grasped onto a piece of ice. All of the river except an open section in the middle was frozen over.

Murderer Hangs In Ontario Jail

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Marvin Mcke, 20, who willed his eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada, was hanged early today for the murder of Huntsville taxi-driver Bruce Spiers, 22. He was only the eighth person hanged in Canada in 2½ years. Prison officials said he confessed his crime and died quietly.

World Fair Plan Backed by Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—A $40,000,000 world's fair in Montreal may be the highlight of Canada's 100th birthday celebrations in 1967. It was disclosed yesterday.

The federal-provincial conference to work out plans for the centennial celebrations, "agreed unanimously" to support the bid by Montreal and the Province of Quebec for the world's fair.

Daylight Time Undecided

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons yesterday studied the pros and cons of daylight saving time but failed to come to any decision on a proposal for uniform opening and closing dates across the nation.

The Soviet premier insisted that a peace treaty with Germany was necessary for "stabilizing a situation provoked by war" and that any agreement must include establishing the frontiers set by the Second World War.

Khrushchev urged Gromyko to stay in the Soviet Union. "Don't lose your time, don't go back and don't be preoccupied by a question of political party," Khrushchev was quoted as telling Gromyko.

Gromyko replied: "I would like to present Premier Khrushchev with a good wish. Maybe some day, touched by divine grace, he will enter the Christian Democratic party."

Moon Flight 'Too Risky'—Canadian

WINNIPEG (CP)—A leading Canadian scientist said Monday neither the Russians nor anyone else is likely to land a manned rocket on the moon within the next five years.

Dr. William Petrie, operations research superintendent of the Defence Research Board, said difficulty of landing is the big problem.

Another is that the most advanced propulsion system now is "still a major headache. It's a pretty risky operation to project a man into space with what we now have."

Reds Talk Tougher As Arms Improve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian Herter said Monday Russia's military gains may explain why Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is taking a tougher attitude on Berlin and East-West issues.

The secretary said there was no question that the Soviet leader was talking more sternly about Berlin and Germany than he did three months ago.

Herter cited Communist declarations that the Red bloc would make a separate pact with Communist East Germany and let the Allies take the "consequences" if the West refused to agree to a peace treaty with divided Germany on Russian terms.

The secretary said that if Russia announces any one-sided action on Germany before there is full discussion with the Allies, it will violate the spirit of the agreement reached by Khrushchev and President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., last fall.

Lots of Talk, No Action

If the hydro development hassle in British Columbia continues much longer with a lot of talk and no action, natural gas may step in and do the job.

Fulton on Power

Columbia Tops Seaway

TORONTO (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Monday night the development of the Columbia River holds even greater promise for the people of British Columbia than the St. Lawrence Seaway project did for the people of Ontario and Quebec.

The stumbling block in the way of this realization is that the Columbia is an international river, he said. But he told the Toronto board of trade that a solution "seems to be in sight."

CO-OPERATE

Mr. Fulton spoke here on the eve of a meeting in Ottawa with representatives of the B.C. government to discuss how the two might co-operate on the proposed project and to hear the province's suggestions on what the federal government might say Thursday when it meets a United States delegation. The Canada-U.S. meeting is to consider the recent benefit-sharing suggestions of the International Joint Commission.

50-50 SPLIT

Last December the joint commission recommended a 50-50 split of the benefits of increased downstream power accruing from Canadian power installations proposed along the Columbia where it flows through Canada. Mr. Fulton said this broke the "log-jam of conflicting interests" over sharing of downstream benefits.

"The basic step has been taken and it now remains for us to reach a detailed agreement for developing the river's potential within the framework of these principles," he said.

That was the warning given yesterday to the B.C. legislature by Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who as well as being minister in charge of the natural gas and petroleum resources is a member of the B.C. Power Commission.

MORE POLITICS

"There is more politics than production in the hydro (Columbia vs. Peace) hassle. Natural gas resources could quite effectively take over the job hydro is expected to do," he said.

"It might come as a surprise to you to hear that in 1959 B.C. gas wells produced more energy than all the energy produced by hydro in the same year," he said.

WORTHY OF NOTE

He converted the natural gas produced in B.C. to British thermal units and said "it is worthy of note that in the year 1959, the natural gas produced in B.C. in terms of thermal units was equal to 145 per cent of all the electrical energy produced in B.C. in that same year."

He noted that "uses for electrical energy and natural gas, as energy, are often parallel." He pointed out BCPC thermal units in the north have created great savings by using natural gas instead of diesel oil.

BIG DISCOVERIES

The mines minister referred to tremendous gas discoveries at Clarke Lake, Kootenai Lake and Pettit River. "It is entirely possible that drilling of a limited number of wells in these three areas could almost overnight double gas production of this province," he said.

Fast-Moving Boy Saves Playmate

NORTH SURREY (CP)—Quick action by a playmate saved Rodney McCann, 10, of Vancouver from serious injury Sunday when his face and hair were burned by a home-made flame thrower. Charles Kuyper, 14, of Surrey, pulled Rodney's face into his chest to smother the flames. The accident occurred when a group of boys decided to light turpentine.

Disarmament Above Friends, Foes

MONTREAL (CP)—Former Health Minister Paul Martin said yesterday the Canadian delegation to the forthcoming international disarmament conference should go to Geneva, prepared to "stand up not only against the Soviet Union but under circumstances involving our own friends."

The Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East told the Montreal Canadian Club that Canada's participation in the 10-nation meeting opening March 15 will be the most important action this country has taken on the international scene for many years.

He said Canada should have the "major responsibility" for definite proposals worked out, any failure of such meetings on the basis of the country's but "by no means the sole experience and international responsibility."

The U.S. had turned tough when Russia had appeared to be on the verge of becoming Russia, he said, will bear more reasonable.
